INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this book is to identify the most common trouble spots for English language learners, to provide a basis for understanding why these trouble spots cause difficulties, and to offer guidance and practice for avoiding potential errors.

Many errors commonly made by speakers and learners of a second language are caused by transferring patterns and features of the native language to the new language. This happens in all aspects of language from pronunciation to word formation to sentence structure:

Difficulty saying an English sound arises because the first language does not have such a sound.
Double letters are omitted from English words because the first language's spelling system does not have double letters.
Verb endings to show tense or noun endings to show plurals are omitted because the first language does not add such suffixes to these words.

- Adjectives are placed after, rather than before, nouns because the first language follows that pattern.
- "Taller from" is said instead of "taller than" because that’s the pattern in the first language.

Another source of error is the learning process itself. That is, learners tend to overapply or misapply patterns and rules in the new language, do not learn exceptions to the rules, or do not apply the rules fully. Here are examples of these kinds of errors:

Applying the regular -ed past-tense ending to irregular verbs: Igoed home early yesterday. - Using more with the adjective heavy (which requires the eer ending) because the rule that twosyllable adjectives ending in -y use -er, not more, was not fully learned.

- Using asleep in front of a noun because the rule that a certain small group of adjectives, including asleep, are used only after a linking verb was not fully learned.

In this book, you will find help with these and many more common errors through explanation and example. You will become aware of potential trouble spots and learn how to break the habits, learn the necessary rules, and correct your mistakes. Several examples are given for each topic, followed by exercises that test your understanding and help you avoid the pitfalls.

Because individual words of a language are used in connection with other words, you will find that many topics are mentioned in more than one place. Extensive cross-referencing will help you find connections between related topics. Topics and lists are presented in logical order. For example, irregular verbs are presented in groups of verbs that follow similar patterns. Comparative and superlative forms of adjectives are presented in logical groupings according to how they are formed and spelled. Verb tenses are presented in order from the present tense to modal verbs. Complex syntactic patterns, such as the passive voice, are presented at the end of the volume, after all the prerequisite knowledge has been presented. In addition, the back of the book includes a comprehensive and detailed index, which serves as a guide to locating all the references to each topic, as well as a key with the answers to all the exercises. I hope that the materials presented in this book will help you improve your proficiency in English and avoid the most common and vexing errors in English.

Suggestions for Using this Book

This book is divided into two parts: Pronunciation and Spelling and Grammar. The largest section is Grammar, which identifies the various parts of speech in traditional terminology for ease of comprehension. Each term is explained and illustrated with multiple examples, providing necessary review or clarification.
There are many ways to use this book:

- Examine the "Avoid the Error" headings in each section. Read the examples and then the related explanations.
- Use the index to find specific topics, as you need them.
- Use the table of contents to find the specific chapters you want to study.
- Work through the book in sequence from beginning to end for a complete overview or review of English grammar and the most common and vexing errors that learners make.
- Complete the exercises on your own paper, and use the Answer Key to check your work. Then review any areas where you need extra review or explanation, and complete the exercises again.
- Use the "Catch the Errors" section at the end of the book to check your understanding of the major topics in the book.

Throughout this book, all errors are presented in red type and marked by an $\mathcal{X}$. For maximum clarity, all errors are corrected, and each corrected version is presented with a $\checkmark$.

The guidelines here are based on current standard usage in North America. However, usage varies according to region and other variables, and language is constantly changing. In cases where variants exist for formal and informal situations, details are provided. The biggest error of all would be to correct a native speaker, or to imply in any way that he or she does not speak correct English. The best way to improve your English is to listen to native speakers and interact with them.

PRONUNCIATION AND SPELLING

PRONUNCIATION

English Sounds

The English language has about forty sounds, twenty-four consonants, and sixteen vowels. Knowing these sounds can help you improve your pronunciation. Special phonetic symbols are used to represent sounds. Key places in this book use phonetic symbols to clarify pronunciation. They are written between slash marks, such as /b/, to indicate that they are symbols. You do not need to memorize these symbols to learn English-just use them as references. Many learners' dictionaries use these symbols, so being familiar with them will help you when you look up words. Each of these sounds can be spelled in many ways. For information on spelling, see page 9.

Voiced and Voiceless Sounds

Consonants fall into two groups, voiced and voiceless. When you say a voiced sound, your vocal chords vibrate. When you say a voiceless sound, your vocal chords do not vibrate. To feel your vocal chords vibrate, place your hand on your throat and say word pairs such as fan/van, pill/bill, or Sue/zoo. Your vocal chords should not vibrate when you say the first consonant in each pair.
Many learners have difficulty with the sounds $/ \theta /$ and $/ \partial /$. The sound $/ \theta /$ is not voiced (i.e., it is voiceless), which means the vocal chords do not vibrate when you say it. The sound / $\partial /$ is voiced. The chords should vibrate when you say this consonant.

avoid the Exror

To pronounce $/ \theta /$ and $/ \delta /$, your tongue must be between the upper and lower teeth. Instead, people may make the mistake of saying /d/ or another sound.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ dis $\quad \checkmark$ this
The sounds $/ \theta$ / and / $\partial /$ may be difficult for individuals from a culture where it is not polite to show your tongue. Keep in mind that when speaking English, showing one's tongue to pronounce these sounds is perfectly normal. Nevertheless, if you are shy, you might cover your mouth when you say these sounds, until you become comfortable saying them.

To learn/r/, listen to native speakers and practice saying words with many /r/ sounds, such as refrigerator. Saying tongue twisters is also a good way to practice this sound.

Around the rough rocks the angry rascal ran.

avoid the Error

The sounds /l/ and /r/ are often difficult for speakers of Chinese, Japanese, Korean, and other Asian languages. In fact, their listeners can become confused by the wrong sound:

| right | $\boldsymbol{X} / l /$ light | $\checkmark / r /$ right |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| lock | $\mathbf{X} / \mathrm{r} /$ rock | $\checkmark / / /$ lock |
| grass | $\mathbf{X} / 1 /$ glass | $\checkmark / r /$ grass |

Word pairs that can be confused in this way include: right/light, lock/rock, grass/glass, lamp/ramp, raw/law, row/low.

The sound $/ \mathrm{l} /$ is produced by the tip of the tongue touching the roof of the mouth. The sound $/ \mathrm{r} /$ involves no contact between the tongue and the roof of the mouth.

The spelling of words in English is a reliable clue for when to pronounce each sound. The letter $l$ is always pronounced $/ l /$, and the letter $r$ is always pronounced $/ \mathrm{r} /$. However, some words have a silent l: would, could, should, half, chalk, talk, walk, Lincoln, almond, and salmon.

Vowels

This table shows the vowel sounds of English:

The $/ \varepsilon$ r/ sound is particularly hard to say. To learn it, practice saying words with vowel +r combinations.
bird third heard absurd

Stress

Stress is the loudness with which we say a word or syllable. (A syllable is a part of a word that consists of at least one vowel and can have one or more consonants. A word can consist of one or more syllables.) A word can have one or more stressed syllables. A one- or two-syllable word can have one stressed syllable.
'din ner 'sci ence 'food
A word of two or more syllables can have primary stress and secondary stress. Primary stress is marked with ', secondary stress with '.

Some words, such as articles and one-syllable prepositions, are not stressed at all.
a an on

In English, unstressed vowels usually become / / /.
of /əv/ the /thə/ but /bat/

Sometimes the meaning of a word depends on which syllable is stressed.

X He is a main suspect.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ The police suspect he is the criminal.
$\checkmark \mathrm{He}$ is the main suspect.
The police suspect he is the criminal.

In suspect/suspect and many other pairs of words, the first syllable is stressed if the word is a noun, but the second syllable is stressed if the word is a verb.

| :---: | :--- |

Contrastive Stress

In English, we can stress any word, even one that normally is not stressed, to express a special meaning. Look at how the meaning of this sentence changes depending on the stress:

We will finish work at 1:00. (Others will finish at another time.)
We will finish work at 1:00. (We won't finish at another time.)
We will finish work at 1:00. (We won't start or do something else at that time.)
We will finish work at 1:00. (We won’t work after that time.)
We will finish work at 1:00. (We will finish at exactly that time.)
We will finish work at 1:00. (We will not finish at 2:00.)
Listen carefully when English speakers give special stress to a certain word. It means that the person is using contrastive stress.

Rising Intonation for Questions

Intonation is the pitch, higher or lower, of sound. English uses rising intonation for yes/no questions. With rising intonation, the pitch goes up at the end of the sentence. The rising intonation signals that the person is asking a question.
Are you finished using the computer?

avoid the Error

Do not use rising intonation with wh- questions. Use falling intonation.

$\boldsymbol{X}$ When does the movie  begin? (rising intonation)

$\checkmark$ When does the movie begin? (falling intonation)

In wh- questions, the question word signals that the person is asking a question. Rising intonation is not necessary with wh-questions.

SPELLING

English spelling often seems difficult, but many common spelling patterns can help us spell better.

Vowels

Short Vowels

Spell short vowels /I, $\varepsilon, æ, \supset, ~ \cup, /$ with only one letter.
red it pot pen mad

Long Vowels

To spell long vowels /i, e, o, u/, use two letters.

| SHORT | LONG |
| :--- | :--- |
| mat | mate |
| rid | ride |
| mad | maid |

Usually, the second vowel is silent. To remember this rule, children use a simple rhyme. You can use it, too: "When two vowels go walking, the first one does the talking."
A vowel that comes at the end of a word or syllable also is long.

i Before e

When the letters $i$ and $e$ are together, they are usually spelled ie.
relief friend believe view
There are some exceptions to this rule:
After $c, e$ usually comes before $i$.
deceive receive
When the combination sounds like /a/, e comes before $i$.
neighbor weigh weight freight eight However, not all words follow this pattern:
weird foreign leisure

A children's rhyme makes this rule memorable: "I before $e$, except after $c$ or when sounded as /a/, as in neighbor and weigh."

Consonants

The sound /f/ can be spelled with/, ph-, -ough, or -augh.

| find | phone | enough | laugh |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| effort | photo | rough | laughter |
| golf | alphabet | tough | laughed |
| chef | graph | cough |  |

There are some exceptions to these rules. The letter group -ough also represents /o/. bough dough

The letter group -augh represents the sounds / $\% /$.
daughter caught haughty

avoid the crifor

The initial /f/ sound in Philippines (an island nation in Asia) is spelled Ph-, but Filipino (an individual from that country) is spelled with $F$.
X Filippines

$X$ Philipino

The sound /k/ can be spelled $c, c c, k$, or $c k$.
back cake occur

The letter $q$ is always followed by $u$.

| quick | quiet | quit | question |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| quality | qualification | quiz |  |

The /s/ sound can be spelled with $c$ or $s$. Usually $c+i$ or $e$ is pronounced /s/. Otherwise, c is usually pronounced $/ \mathrm{k}$.

| /s/ | said | usually | cede | excellent | cider |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| /k/ | company | computer | cucumber | calculate |  |

The / $\ddagger /$ sound can be spelled with $g$ or / Usually, $g+i$ or $e$ is pronounced / $\ddagger /$. Otherwise, $g$ is usually pronounced /g/.

AVoid the Error
Don't forget the double consonant letters in English words.

X leter

Silent Letters.

Many words have silent letters.
The $k$ is silent in the initial $k n$-.
knight knife knee know knowledge

The letters $g h$ are silent in the final -ght.
height eight flight light might right

- The letter $b$ is silent before $t$ in words such as:
debt doubt
The letters $h$ and $w$ are silent in these combinations: $r h$ - and $w r$ -

| rhyme wrestle | wrong |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| rhythm | write |  |
| rhino | wrap |  |

An initial $h$ is silent in many words.
honor herb hour heir

- The letter / is silent in these words:
should could would
Many words end with a silent final -e.
rake take make stake brake

AVOID THE  Error

Take care not to forget a final silent $-e$.

```
X lik
\checkmark ~ l i k e
X bik

Adding Prefixes

A prefix is a word part added to the beginning of a word to change its meaning. Common prefixes include mis-, over-, pre-, and re-. Adding a prefix to a word does not change the spelling of the word.

avom the Error

If the last letter of a prefix and the first letter of a word are the same, the letter will appear double when the prefix and word are combined. Do not forget the double letter.

| mis + state | $\boldsymbol{X}$ mistate | $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ misstate |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| un + necessary | $\boldsymbol{X}$ unecessary | $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ unnecessary |
| mis + spell | $\boldsymbol{X}$ mispell | $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ misspell |
| pre + eminent | $\boldsymbol{X}$ preminent | $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ preeminent |

Adding Suffixes

Suffixes are word parts that are added to the ends of words. Common suffixes include -ed, -ing, er, est, $-s,-f u l,-l y$, and so on. Adding suffixes to words involves many spelling changes. Here are some simple rules.
When adding a suffix that ends in a vowel to a one-syllable word that ends in a vowel and a single consonant (hot), double the final consonant: hotter.

\begin{array}{llll}
\text { hot }+ \text {-er } & \text { hotter } & \text { big }+ \text {-est } & \text { biggest } \\ \text { hit }+ \text {-ing } & \text { hitting } & \text { stop }+ \text {-ed } & \text { stopped } \end{array}

This is often called the $\mathbf{1 + 1} \mathbf{+ 1}$ rule. If a word has a one-syllable word, one short vowel, and one consonant at the end, then double the consonant when adding a suffix.

If a word has more than one syllable, double the final consonant only if the final syllable is stressed.
first syllable is stressed travel + er traveler open + ed opened final syllable is stressed begin + ing beginning

When adding a suffix to a word that ends in consonant $+-y$, change the final $-y$ to $-i$.

| cry + ed | cried | fry + es | fries |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| lady +s | ladies |  |  |

When adding a suffix to a word that ends in a vowel $+-y$, do not change the final $-y$ to $-i$.

\text { stay }+ \text {-ed } \quad \text { stayed } \quad \text { play }+ \text {-ful } \quad \text { playful }
$$

When adding a suffix to a word that ends in a vowel, drop the final vowel if the suffix begins with a vowel.
nice + -est nicest bore + -ed bored make + -ing making

now merror

Do not drop the final -e when it comes before $c$ or $g$ and the suffix begins in $a$, $o$, or $u$.

manage + -able }\boldsymbol{X}\mathrm{ managable }\boldsymbol{\checkmark}\mathrm{ manageable courage + ous }\boldsymbol{X}\mathrm{ couragous }\boldsymbol{\checkmark}\mathrm{ courageous notice + -able }\boldsymbol{x}\mathrm{ noticable \}\mathrm{ noticeable

When adding -able to like or love, dropping the $-e$ is optional:

| likeable | loveable |
| :--- | :--- |
| likable | lovable |

When adding a suffix to a word that ends in a vowel, keep the final vowel if the suffix begins with a consonant.
love + -ly lovely
For details on adding
-s to nouns, see page 47.
-s to verbs, see page 131.
-ing to verbs, see page 138.

- ed to verbs, see page 150.
- -er/-est to adjectives, see page 105.
- -ly to adjectives, see page 223.
- -er/-est to adverbs, see page 233.

Contractions

Contractions are short forms for two words written together. Use an apostrophe to spell a contraction. The apostrophe replaces the letters that have been deleted from the contraction.

\begin{array}{llll}
\text { do + not don't } & \begin{array}{l} \text { will + not } \\ \text { won't }
\end{array} & \begin{array}{l}
\text { does + not doesn't } \\ \text { he }+ \text { is } \end{array} \text { he's } & \text { they + are they're } \end{array} \text { he + had he'd } 4 \text { had }

avoid the erfor

Don't confuse the common contractions they're, it's, and you're with other words:
They're is the contraction of they are. Writers often confuse they're with the possessive adjective their or the adverb there.
$X$ There busy today.
$\checkmark$ They're busy today.
$X$ Their busy today.
It's is the contraction of it is. Writers often confuse it's with the possessive adjective its.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ Its sunny today.
It's sunny today.
You're is the contraction of you are. Writers often confuse you're with the possessive adjective your.

X Your at work so early today, Margaret.
$\checkmark$ You're at work so early today, Margaret.

Compound Words

Compound words are two words that come together to form a new word. Compound words can be spelled as single words, with hyphens, or as two separate words.

| news + paper | newspaper | butter + fly | butterfly |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| second + hand | secondhand |  |  |
| six + pack | six-pack | mass + produced mass-produced |  |
| son + in + law | son-in-law |  |  |
| post + office  park + bench | post office  park bench | real + estate | real estate |
| par |  |  |  |

now wie Error

X Thankyou for your support. $\checkmark$ Thank you for your support.

When compound words are pronounced, the first word is always stressed.
mailbox post office postage stamp postmark
To spell a compound word, say the parts aloud. If the first word is not stressed, it's not a compound. Spell it as two words without a hyphen. If the first word is stressed, then the entire word is a compound. Check a dictionary to see if a space or a hyphen is needed.

Homonyms

Homonyms are words that sound the same but have different spellings and meanings. Using an incorrect homonym is very confusing to readers. The following table shows some common homonyms:

| accept | except |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| ad | add |  |
| affect | effect |  |
| be | bee |  |
| bear | bare |  |
| by | buy |  |
| fair | fare |  |
| here | hear |  |
| hour | our |  |
| in | inn |  |
| its | it's |  |
| know | no |  |
| meet | meat |  |
| principal | principle |  |
| right | write |  |

| to too | two |  |
| weather | whether |  |
| who's | whose |  |
| whole | hole |  |
| you're | your |  |
|  |  |  |

avoid the Error

Be careful to use the correct homonym. Using the wrong homonym is very confusing to readers.

X Our car wouldn't start. It needed a toe.

X That car should break down.

* Phyllis is my favorite ant.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ The wind blue down several trees.

X I love you, deer.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ The facts machine is not working.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ He nose.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ The team one the game.

$\checkmark$ The fax machine is not working.
- He knows.
$\checkmark$ The team won the game.
$\checkmark$ She cooked a steak for dinner.
$\checkmark$ We saw a bear in the woods.
$\checkmark$ Our clock is fast.

If you type on a computer, the spell-checker can help you catch many spelling errors. However, it will not always catch errors when you type one homonym instead of another.

Give me a stake.
Give me a steak.
Make sure you use the word you really mean.

nom wierror

Some common spelling errors are the result of quick or careless keyboarding. Instead of typing one word, such as or, we type a similar word by mistake, such as of.
$X$ Do you want cake of pie?
$\boldsymbol{X}$ This pie is made or fresh pumpkin.

Watch for errors such as:

| $X$ form | $\checkmark$ from | $\boldsymbol{X}$ from | $\checkmark$ form |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| $\boldsymbol{X}$ of | $\checkmark$ or | $\boldsymbol{X}$ or | $\checkmark$ of |

| $\boldsymbol{x}$ then | $\checkmark$ than | $\boldsymbol{X}$ than | $\checkmark$ then |
| $\boldsymbol{X}$ loose | $\checkmark$ lose | $\boldsymbol{x}$ lose | $\checkmark$ loose |

Good spelling takes careful proofreading. Ideally, you should check your writing for errors several times. Always double-check your writing for correct spelling.

avoid the Error

Avoid these common spelling errors when you proofread.

comma question mark exclamation mark

semicolon
quotation marks

At the end of an abbreviation

Nom Efror

Do not use periods with acronyms. Acronyms are abbreviations formed from the first letters of a name or title. Acronyms are usually pronounced as words.

```
X N.A.S.A. stands for "National \checkmark NASA stands for "National Aeronautics and Space Administration."
```

- NASA stands for "National

Aeronautics and Space
Administration." (NASA is pronounced "NA-suh.")

Many organizations whose shortened names are not pronounced as words but as individual letters do not use periods after the letters in the shortened names.

X A.M.A. stands for "American Medical Association."

You need to file your tax return with the I.R.S. no later than April 15.
$\checkmark \boldsymbol{A M A}$ stands for "American Medical Association." (AMA is pronounced A-M-A.)

avoid the Error

If an abbreviation is at the end of a sentence, you do not need two periods.

X He bought apples, oranges, grapes, etc..
$\checkmark$ He bought apples, oranges, grapes, etc.

The titles Mr. and Mrs. are abbreviations for full forms that are no longer used. Always use a period after these abbreviations. Ms. is not an abbreviation, but it uses a period.

avoid the crior

With Miss, do not use a period.

Miss. Metzger is a teacher in this school.
$\checkmark$ Miss Metzger is a teacher in this school.

Periods are used in Internet addresses. If an Internet address is at the end of a sentence, use a period at the end. The reader should know not to include that period when using the address online.

My favorite source for news is www.cnn.com.

not meerror

When periods are used in an Internet address (a URL) or an e-mail address, we say dot, not period.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ "w-w-w period c-n-n period $\checkmark$ "w-w-w dot $\mathrm{c}-\mathrm{n}-\mathrm{n}$ dot $\mathrm{c}-\mathrm{o}-\mathrm{m}$ " c-o-m"

Exclamation Mark

Exclamation marks show emotion and excitement. We often use exclamation marks in imperatives.

Watch out!
I love my new SUV!
Be careful!
I just won $20 million in the lottery!
For more information on imperatives, see page 142.

avoid тне Erfor

Avoid excessive exclamation marks, especially in more formal kinds of writing, such as business letters. Do not use multiple exclamation marks, except in very informal kinds of writing, such as a letter to a good friend or a message in a greeting card.

X Spex Optical is happy to receive your application for employment! You have exactly the qualifications we are looking for! We'd like to set up an interview soon! Please call us right away!

We can use an exclamation point at the end of an imperative or a sentence if it's said with emotion.

AVOID THE

An exclamation mark is not required at the end of every imperative. Use an exclamation mark only when the words are said with emotion.
$\mathbf{X}$ Hand in your test paper
when you are finished!
$\checkmark$ Hand in your test paper
when you are finished.

Question Mark

Use a question mark at the end of a direct question.
Who left the door open?
Are you ready to leave yet?

avoid тне Error

Do not use a question mark at the end of an indirect question, which is a question inside of a statement. An indirect question is a part of a statement, so use a period.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ I wonder who will win the race?
x The boss asked who could work late?
$\checkmark$ I wonder who will win the race.

- The boss asked who could work late.

Comma

We use commas with words, phrases, or clauses that come in a series. Use commas:
With three or more items in a series joined by and or or. Use a comma when a sentence contains a series of items (nouns, phrases, or clauses) joined by and.

He served broccoli, mashed potatoes, and carrots with dinner.
They went to the mall, shopped for new clothes, and went to the movies.
Alison vacuumed the living room, Tim washed the dishes, Diane cleaned the bathroom, and Liz shouted instructions to all of them.

The last comma in the series (before and) is optional.
He served broccoli, mashed potatoes and carrots with dinner.

AVOID THE

Avoid excess commas with items in a series. Do not use a comma:
With only two items in a series

X He applied for the job last week, and has an interview on Monday.
$\checkmark$ He applied for the job last week and has an interview on Monday.

Before the first item in a series
X You cannot, smoke, chew gum, eat, or drink in the auditorium.

After the last item in a series
X You cannot smoke, chew gum, eat, or drink, in the auditorium.

After and or or
They met, dated for two years, got engaged, and, got married two years ago.
$\checkmark$ You cannot smoke, chew gum, eat, or drink in the auditorium.
$\checkmark$ You cannot smoke, chew gum, eat, or drink in the auditorium.

They met, dated for two years, got engaged, and got married two years ago.

With such as. Such as can be used to introduce an example or examples. Use a comma before such as.

This summer, I want to learn to cook Italian food, such as lasagna, spaghetti, and linguine.

avoid the error

Do not use a comma after such as.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ There are many nice people in my apartment building, such as, Mr. Williams.
$\checkmark$ There are many nice people in my apartment building, such as Mr. Williams.

Between two or more adjectives in a series. Use a comma between two or more coordinate adjectives in a series. (Coordinate adjectives can have their order changed and can be joined with and.)

He bought some ugly red T-shirts. (You cannot say "red ugly T-shirts," so a comma is not needed.)
The intelligent, hardworking students got high grades. (You can say "hardworking, intelligent," so a comma is needed.)

Between two independent clauses in a sentence. Use a comma when two independent clauses are joined into a single sentence with and, but, or, nor, for, yet, or so. An independent clause has a complete subject and verb and can stand alone as a sentence.

My dog likes to go outside, and my cat likes to sleep in front of the fireplace.
He went to the supermarket, but he forgot to buy milk.
The mechanic will fix the problem, or I will have to buy a new car.
She was locked out of her apartment, for she lost her keys on the bus.
He spent the whole day at the water park, yet he never got wet.
They didn't check a map before leaving, so they got lost almost right away.

avoid тне Erfor

Do not join two independent clauses with only a comma. This error is often called a "comma splice."
$\boldsymbol{x}$ Franklin cut the lawn in the morning, his brother cleaned the garage.
Correct a comma splice by joining the clauses with a semicolon or with a comma and and, but, or, nor, for, yet, or so.
$\checkmark$ Franklin cut the lawn in the morning, and his brother cleaned the garage.
$\checkmark$ Franklin cut the lawn in the morning; his brother cleaned the garage.

A comma is not needed when the clauses are very short.
She got up and he made breakfast.

avoid the Error

Do not use a comma to join only two compound elements, such as compound subjects or predicates, or compound objects of prepositions. Compound elements are joined with words such as and, but, and or.

X My job involves training salespeople, and observing them in the field.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ I am afraid that there is a disagreement between Mary, and Jane.

X At work today, I mailed some letters, and made some phone calls.
$\checkmark$ My job involves training salespeople and observing them in the field.
$\checkmark$ I am afraid that there is a disagreement between Mary and Jane.
$\checkmark$ At work today, I mailed some letters and made some phone calls.

Between a dependent clause and an independent clause. Use a comma to join a dependent clause followed by an independent clause. A clause has a complete subject and a complete verb. An independent clause can stand alone. A dependent clause cannot stand alone as a sentence. A subordinating conjunction (such as when, if, though, while, etc.) joins the two clauses.

If I win the grand prize in the lottery, I'll buy a new house and a new car.
Though she wasn't hungry, Mavis ate a slice of pizza.

avoid тне Erfor

Do not use a comma to join an independent clause followed by a dependent clause.
X I'll buy a new car and a new house, if I win the lottery.
$\checkmark$ I'll buy a new car and a new house if I win the lottery.

Other subordinating conjunctions include so that, that, and in order that.

Empror

Do not confuse so with so that. So introduces an independent clause. A comma is needed before so.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ He won a million dollars in the lottery so he quit his job and moved to Hawaii.

$\checkmark$ He won a million dollars in the lottery, so he quit his job and moved to Hawaii.

So that means "in order that" and introduces a dependent clause. A comma is not needed before so that, because a comma is not needed when an independent clause is followed by a dependent clause.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ He put his backpack near the front door, so that he could find it easily leaving for work.

He put his backpack near the front door so that he could find it easily leaving for work.

A comma is needed when the clause with so that begins the sentence.
X So that he wouldn't forget he put his backpack near the front door.

So that he wouldn't forget,
he put his backpack near the front door.

Before and after an appositive. An appositive is a noun or noun phrase that uses other words to restate the noun just before it. Commas always come before and after an appositive.

George Washington, the first president of the United States, was elected in 1789.
I'd like to introduce my uncle, Don Mantle. He owns a used bicycle shop, Don's Bikes.
For more information on appositives, see page 56.
After an introductory prepositional phrase. A prepositional phrase is formed with a preposition and a noun. Prepositional phrases can modify nouns, verbs, or a whole sentence. An introductory prepositional phrase is at the beginning of a sentence and modifies the whole sentence. Use a comma after an introductory prepositional phrase, unless the phrase is very short.

At the beginning of the winter driving season, motorists should check their radiator fluid.
In summer check your coolant, (no comma necessary)
For more information on prepositions and prepositional phrases, see page 238.

After an introductory participial phrase. A present participle is a verb + -ing. A past participle is a verb + -ed. Participles are used with forms of be or have to form various tenses. Participles can also be used as modifiers. An introductory participial phrase is formed with a present or past participle and its objects and modifiers. An introductory participial phrase is followed by a comma.

Quickly running downstairs, Dale tripped and fell down.
Bored by the long speeches, Laura and Julie dozed off.

now merror

A comma is not needed after but or although when one of these words begins a sentence.

```
X But, he was not able to finish.
X Although, he speaks English exceptionally well, he sometimes misunderstands people.
```

But he was not able to finish.
Although he speaks English exceptionally well, he sometimes misunderstands people.

After an introductory adverb. When an adverb begins a sentence and modifies the whole sentence, it is set off with a comma.

Exceptionally, employees may be granted time off if they make up the time.

avoid the erfor

Do not use a comma after an adverb at the beginning of the sentence if it modifies only one part of the sentence, such as an adjective that follows it.

X Exceptionally, delicious Christmas cookies are easy to make.
$\checkmark$ Exceptionally delicious Christmas cookies are easy to make.

Before and after an interrupting phrase. Use commas before and after a word or phrase that interrupts a sentence.

John wants to go to Florida on vacation. Mary, however, wants to go to California.
Before and after words in direct address. Use commas before and after a word that is said in direct address (i.e., said directly to the listener).

Let's go, everybody!
In dates. Use a comma between the day and the year in dates.

The United States declared independence from Britain on July 4, 1776.
In locations. Use a comma before and after the state when both city and state appear together.
The Declaration of Independence was signed in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
Washington, DC, is the capital of the United States.

nownerror

Avoid unnecessary commas. Do not use a comma between:

- The subject and the verb

X The most careful drivers, always drive defensively.

- A preposition and its object
$\boldsymbol{X}$ He tried to fix the drainpipe with, an old pipe wrench.
$\checkmark$ The most careful drivers always drive defensively.

An adjective and the noun it modifies

avoid the Error

Do not use a colon to separate a verb and its objects.

$\checkmark$ Please buy apples oranges, and grapes.

Use a colon after an independent clause to introduce an idea.
After wandering for hours, they could reach only one conclusion: they were lost.
I have a great suggestion: let's go to the beach on Sunday.

avoid the Erfor

Do not use a colon between a preposition and its object or objects.

| $\mathbf{x}$ Tomorrow, I'm going to see |  |
| :--- | :--- |
| a baseball game between: | $\checkmark$Tomorrow, I'm going to see  a baseball game between  Chicago and St. Louis. |
| Chicago and St. Louis. |  |

For more information on prepositions, see page 238.

Semicolon

Use a semicolon to link independent clauses without a coordinating conjunction.
Margo graduated from college; however, she decided to travel for a year before getting a job. Some people deny that global warming is a problem; most scientists disagree with them.

avoid the crfor

Do not use a semicolon in place of a colon.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ Please order these supplies; a box of copier paper, three dozen pens, and ten boxes of paper clips.
$\checkmark$ Please order these supplies: a box of copier paper, three dozen pens, and ten boxes of paper clips.

Quotation Marks

Use quotation marks for titles of books, movies, stories, TV shows, and so on.
I love watching "Friends."

avoid the crifor

In formal writing, writers use quotation marks for short works (such as stories) and italics or underlining for longer works.

$\checkmark$ "Star Wars" is my favorite movie.

Use quotation marks to show a speaker's exact words.

avoid the Erfor

Always put a period or comma inside the quotation marks.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ The groom said, "I do", too. $\checkmark$ The groom said, "I do," too.
Place a question mark or exclamation mark inside the quotation marks if it's part of the quotation. If not, place the punctuation mark outside the quotation marks.

Use a comma before and after a quotation.

AVOID THE Cffor

avoid the crior

Fish can be made plural only when it refers to many varieties of fishes, especially in science.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ Of all the fish, the shark is the most feared.
$\checkmark$ Of all the fishes, the shark is the most feared.

Pronouncing Plural Nouns

The plural ending of nouns is pronounced in one of three ways: $/ \partial \mathrm{Z} /, / \mathrm{s} /$, or $/ \mathrm{z} /$. Pronounce the plural ending as:

- / Z Z/ after /s, z, f, tf, / $\ddagger$ /

For information on these phonetic symbols, see pages 3 and 4 .

- /s/ after a voiceless consonant such as /f, t, k, p/ (The vocal chords do not vibrate when you say voiceless sounds.)
bats books chips boats banks stamps
- /z/ after a vowel or a voiced consonant such as /v, d, g, n, m, 1/ (The vocal chords vibrate when saying vowels and voiced consonants.)

| parties | boys | chairs | shelves |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| cars | apples | tables | tomatoes |

For more information on voiced and voiceless sounds, see pages 3 and 4.

Countable and Uncountable Nouns

In English, nouns can be divided into two groups: nouns you can count (countable nouns) and nouns you can't count (uncountable nouns).

Countable Nouns

You can count countable nouns. They have plural forms. You can use the indefinite articles $a$ and some with countable nouns.

| a dog | two dogs | some dogs |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| a cat | seven cats | some cats |

Uncountable Nouns

Uncountable nouns include things such as water, meat, cheese, and so on. They are called uncountable because you usually can't count them. You can use the article the with uncountable nouns. You can also use the indefinite article some with uncountable nouns. But you cannot use the indefinite article $a$ with uncountable nouns.

| water | rice | wood |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| money | cement | bread | information |

avoid the Error

Do not use the indefinite article $a$ with uncountable nouns.

$\boldsymbol{X}$ Let's buy a bread for dinner. $\quad \checkmark$| Let's buy some bread for |
| :--- |
| dinner. |

$\boldsymbol{x}$ A milk is good to drink. $\quad \checkmark$ Milk is good to drink.

Do not use another, every, few, or many with uncountable nouns.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ Many water would be good right now.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ I need another flour to make the cake.
$\checkmark$ Some water would be good right now.

- I need more flour to make the cake.

Uncountable nouns do not have plural forms.

now merror

Do not use plural forms with uncountable nouns.

X We bought some breads for dinner.
$x$ They washed their hands with soaps and waters.
$\checkmark$ We bought some bread for dinner.
$\checkmark$ They washed their hands with soap and water.

A few words are both countable and uncountable nouns.

I ate some pizza for lunch.
Fried chicken is tasty.

I ordered a pizza for my family's dinner.
Baby chickens are called chicks.

avoid the Efror

The words clothes and clothing have the same meaning, but different usage. Clothes is a plural count noun. It does not have a singular form.

```
X I bought a new clothes today.
    My new clothes looks great.
```

$\checkmark$ I bought some new clothes today. My new clothes look great.

The related word cloth refers to fabric, the material clothing is made from. This word is not the singular form of clothes.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ I wore my new cloth today. $\quad \checkmark$ I wore my new clothes today.

Cloth is an uncountable noun. Therefore, it doesn't have a plural form.

I bought some nice cloth to make new kitchen curtains.

Clothing is an uncountable noun.

X I am shopping for some clothings. Clothings are too expensive.
```

$\checkmark$ I am shopping for some clothing. Clothing is too expensive.

Using Partitives with Uncountable Nouns

We can use partitive expressions to make uncountable nouns countable. Partitives are words that express containers or units, such as bottle, box, loaf, and so on. Partitives usually are followed by a phrase beginning with of, such as "a bottle of mineral water." Here are some common partitives:

| water | a bottle of water | two bottles of water |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| bread | a loaf of bread | some loaves of bread |
| candy | a box of candy | several boxes of candy |

Questions with How Much and How Many

We use how much to ask questions about uncountable nouns.
How much flour do you need for that bread recipe?
We use how many to ask questions about countable nouns.
How many loaves of bread do you want to make?

Possessive Nouns

A possessive noun shows who or what another noun belongs to.
Megan's book (Megan owns the book.)
the car's door (The door belongs to the car.)
We use an -s and an apostrophe (') to form possessive nouns. Follow these rules:
Add an apostrophe and an -s to singular-count nouns.
John's book
the school's new building the dog's collar

AVOID THE

To make a singular noun that ends in -s or -es possessive, do not add only an apostrophe (')- add 's.

$\boldsymbol{X}$ the bass' voice

$\checkmark$ the bass's voice

A few words that end in -s can add only an apostrophe to form the possessive, such as Jesus or a few Greek writers, to avoid an unpleasant repeating of the $/ \mathrm{s} /$ sound.

```
X Jesus's teachings
\(\checkmark\) Jesus' teachings
* Sophocles's plays \(\checkmark\) Sophocles' plays
```

Add an apostrophe to regular plural count nouns.
the girls' backpacks (two girls have backpacks) the wheels' new hubcaps

avoid the error

Do not add 's to regular plural nouns to make them possessive $\boldsymbol{X}$ the dogs's water bowls
$\checkmark$ the dogs' water bowls
$\boldsymbol{x}$ the boys's baseball game
$\checkmark$ the boys' baseball game

Add 's to irregular plurals that do not end in -s.

avoid the erfor

Do not add the before a possessive proper noun.

```
X I want to see the Mary's new car.
* The Thrifty Bank's new drive-through window is open seven days a week.
```

$\checkmark$ I want to see Mary's new car.

」 Thrifty Bank's new drivethrough window is open seven days a week.

You can use the with a possessive proper noun when the is part of the noun.
$\checkmark$ This year, the Boy Scouts’ annual holiday wreath sale will be December 10-23.

We can also form possessives with an of phrase and a possessive noun.
Raymond is a neighbor of Tim's.

avoin the Error

When we use possessives with a phrase with of use a possessive noun.

X A book of Allen is lost. \checkmark A book of Allen's is lost.
```

However, when we use an of phrase following a person, the object of of can be a noun or a possessive.
$\checkmark$ A friend of John is coming to the party.
$\checkmark$ A friend of John's is coming to the party.

Use whose to ask questions about possessive nouns.
Whose car is parked in front of the house?
Whose phone rang in the middle of the wedding?
Whose keys are these?

avoid tне érror

Do not confuse whose (question word) with who's (abbreviation of question word who + is).
$X$ Who's book is this?
$\mathbf{X}$ Whose your favorite singer? $\checkmark$ Who's your favorite singer?

Comparing Nouns

We use fewer ... than, the fewest, less ... than, and the least to compare quantities of nouns. Use fewer ... than and the fewest with countable nouns.

We have fewer apples than oranges.
We have the fewest grapefruit.
Use less ... than and the least with uncountable nouns.
We have less salt than sugar.
We have the least pepper.

Appositives

An appositive is a noun that restates another noun in new or different words.
Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth president, ended the Civil War.
My best friend, Ray, works downtown.

avoid the Erfor

An appositive must refer to the noun it precedes or follows.
$\times$ A talented singer, they hired Susan Alexander to perform in the opera.
To correct a misplaced appositive, move it nearer to the noun or rewrite the sentence.
$\checkmark$ They hired Susan Alexander, a talented singer, to perform in the opera.

Writing and Saying Cardinal Numbers

We use cardinal numbers to count. Most numbers are written in the same way around the world.

now Error

There are two differences in how North Americans and Europeans write numbers:
North Americans write $\mathbf{1}$ with a single stroke. In Europe and many other places, this number has an additional stroke.

In Europe and other places, people write the number 7 with an additional stroke. North Americans do not use this additional stroke.

Do not use extra strokes with the numbers 1 and 7 in North America.
$\checkmark$ North America: 17
$\checkmark$ Europe and other parts of the world: 17

For the number zero, people say "zero" or "oh." In ordinary speech, people usually say "oh" for zero.

Odd and Even Numbers

Odd numbers are numbers that cannot be divided evenly by two. Even numbers can be divided evenly by two.

Even: $0,2,4,6,8$
Odd: 1, 3, 5, 7
So when an English speaker mentions an odd number, he or she doesn't mean the number is strange or unusual. The person means that the number can't be divided evenly by two.

Dozen

Dozen means "twelve." Baker's dozen means "thirteen." This comes from a common practice of bakers giving a free item when the customer buys twelve. English speakers often use dozen to describe an approximate number.

Dozens of people were inconvenienced when the bus broke down.

Tens and Teens

To clearly say numbers such as thirteen and thirty, stress the last syllable of numbers ending in teen (such as thirteen), but stress the first syllable of numbers ending in -ty (such as thirty).

| thirteen | thirty  fourteen |
| :--- | :--- |
| forty |  |
| fifteen | fifty |

In general, we say numbers in groups of hundreds, tens, and ones.

one hundred forty-five seventy-six

We can shorten numbers from 101-999 by leaving off the word hundred.

101
145 913 one-oh-one one forty-five nine thirteen

Envor

Do not use and before the last word of a number.
$X$ two hundred twenty and nine $X$ two hundred and twenty-nine two hundred twenty-nine two twenty-nine

Using Numbers and Number Words

In informal writing, such as notes and e-mails, use numbers for all numbers. In formal writing, such as reports for school or business letters, use number words for numbers you can write in one or two words. Use numbers for larger or more complicated numbers.

This table shows when to use numbers or number words in more formal kinds of writing:
USE NUMBER WORDS
twenty books forty-five boxes thirty pounds one-half six percent

use numbers

151 books
314 boxes
35.2 pounds
$1 \frac{1}{5}$ 6.25\%

avoid the error

In formal writing, always use number words when a number is first in a sentence. If the number is very long, rewrite the sentence so the number is not at the beginning of the sentence.

X 23% of this ice cream is fat. \checkmark Twenty-three percent of this ice cream is fat.
\checkmark This ice cream is 23% fat.

Writing and Saying Larger Numbers

Say longer numbers in groups of ten thousands, thousands, hundreds, and so on. When you write longer numbers, use commas to separate groups of three numbers.

avoid the error

Do not use a period to separate groups of numbers in a larger number-use a comma.

X 1.204.196
1,204,196
```

The largest numbers frequently used in everyday speech are million (1,000,000) and billion $(1,000,000,000)$. A millionaire is a person who has at least a million dollars. A billionaire has at least a billion dollars. Larger numbers, such as trillion (1,000,000,000,000), are rarely used.

nompurror

You may hear English speakers use words such as zillion or gazillion to refer to very large numbers or amounts. These words express a large quantity or number, but they are not actual numbers. Do not use these numbers in formal speech or writing.

$\boldsymbol{x}$ The federal budget deficit is more than a zillion dollars.

The federal budget deficit is in the billions of dollars.

Write and say very large approximate numbers this way:

WRITE
20 million
110 billion

SAY

twenty million one hundred ten billion

avoid the Efror

Do not make the words million and billion plural when they are accompanied by a number.

20 millions people  $\checkmark 20$ million people

You can use millions and billions when they are not accompanied by a specific number:
$\checkmark$ Each year, millions of people visit Disney World.
McDonald's has served billions of hamburgers worldwide over the years.

Decimals and Fractions

We use decimals and fractions for numbers smaller than one and greater than zero.

| $\frac{1}{2}$ | $\frac{2}{3}$ | 0.5 |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |

Follow these rules for writing and saying decimals and fractions:
When saying numbers with a fraction, we say and before the fraction.
You see: ${ }^{2 \frac{3}{4}}$
You say: two and three-fourths
When a number includes the fraction $\frac{1}{2}$, we say $a$ or one.
You see: $5 \frac{1}{2}$

You say: five and a half or five and one-half
For decimals (except money), we can use and or the word point.
You see: 2.2
You say: two and two-tenths or two point two
For numbers less than one, we can say point or omit it. We can also say oh (for zero) or omit it.
You see: 0.3
You say: oh point three, point three, or three-tenths

now Enror

When writing decimal fractions, use a decimal point (.), not a comma.

98.6

Amounts of Money

In general, people say amounts of money in groups indicating dollars and cents. Join the dollars and cents groups with and.

WRITE SAY
$525 five hundred twenty-five dollars
$719.95 seven hundred nineteen dollars and ninety-five cents
```

However, people sometimes leave off the words dollars and cents and some of the number words, especially when it's clear they are talking about money.
$$ 19.95 \quad$ nineteen ninety-five $$ 27.13 \quad$ twenty-seven thirteen
When the amount of cents is less than ten, we can say the number of cents in two ways:
Twenty-nine dollars and three cents
Twenty-nine oh three
The value of U.S. coins in numbers does not appear on all coins. U.S. coins have special names, but they appear only on some coins. The size of a coin does not indicate relative value, either. Nickels are bigger than dimes, but they are worth less. Dimes are slightly smaller than pennies, but they are worth more. The following table gives the value of each coin:

COIN NAME penny nickel dime quarter

VALUE one cent five cents ten cents
twenty-five cents

In everyday speech, a popular slang expression for dollar is buck. People use this word in friendly, casual conversation.

Hey, you owe me five bucks for lunch!
I just won fifty bucks in the lottery! Let's go out for pizza!

Telephone Numbers

In general, people say telephone numbers as single numbers, with a very short pause after each group of numbers, (773) 555-4175 seven-seven-three (pause) five-five-five (pause) four-one-seven-five
Phone numbers with many zeros may be pronounced differently, especially if the number is for a large company.
$\begin{array}{ll}555-2300 & \text { five-five-five (pause) two three hundred } \\ 555-8000 & \text { five-five-five (pause) eight thousand }\end{array}$

Addresses

In general, people say addresses as follows:

| numbers | WRITE | SAY |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| 1-99 | 12 State Street | Twelve State Street |
| 100 | 100 North Avenue | One hundred North Avenue  $101-999$ |
| 113 Hill Street | One one three Hill Street  One thirteen Hill Street  Nine hundred Michigan  Avenue |  |
| thousands  over 1000 | 1000 Broadway  4250 Ocean Boulevard | One thousand Broadway  Forty-two fifty Ocean  Boulevard |

Nom wielto

In street addresses, write the building number before the street name, not after it. Do not use a comma between the building number and street name.

Time

In general, you can spell out the time in whole hours (e.g., five o'clock) or use numbers (5:00) when you are writing sentences. Write the time in numbers when you want to emphasize a specific time.

I always get up at 5 o'clock in the morning.
I always get up at five o'clock in the morning.
The first bus leaves at 5:41 in the morning.

avoid the erfor

When we state in a sentence the time of an appointment or a departure, we use at, not to.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ The train leaves to 12:20. $\quad \boldsymbol{\sigma}$ The train leaves at 12:20.

In date books and schedules, always write the time in numbers.
SCHEDULE FOR SATURDAY
9:30 Dentist
10:30 Go to bank, post office, and supermarket
12:00 Meet David for lunch
In informal writing, you can express time in whole hours with or without ":00". If the meaning is clear, you can also omit o'clock.

Let's leave at 9 . Let's leave at 9:00. Let's leave at $\mathbf{9}$ o'clock.

avoid the Error

When saying the time written with ":00", you do not need to say anything for ":00". Just state the hour and o'clock if it's needed for clarity.

You see: 9:00

You say:

Here are some common ways of saying the time:

| TIME | WE SAY |
| :--- | :--- |
| $10: 00$ | ten o'clock |

| $12: 00$ (P.M.) | noon, twelve noon, 12 o'clock |
| $12: 00$ (A.M.) | midnight, twelve midnight, 12 o'clock midnight |

AVOID THE Error

The restaurant opens at 11 A.M. and closes at 11 P.M.

snowier

Unlike many countries, the United States does not use a twenty-four-hour system to write the time. For example, in many parts of the world "4 P.M." is written "16:00". Always write the hours in numbers from 1 to 12 , and use A.M. and P.M. to clarify whether the time is before or after noon.

You will see the A.M. written with and without periods. Both styles are correct.
Your appointment is at 9:00 AM tomorrow.

PRONOUNS

Pronouns take the place of nouns. Pronouns include I, you, he, she, it, we, they, me, him, her, us, and them. We use pronouns such as he, she, $i t$, and them to avoid repeating nouns. We use the pronouns I, you, we, me, and us to refer directly to people who are present in a place or situation. A pronoun has the same meaning as the noun it replaces or refers to.

I think that we are ready to begin. Are you ready, too? (I, we, and you refer to people who are present while the speaker is talking.)
Chuck is a good friend of mine. He lives in Chicago.
Tom visited Barcelona. It's a beautiful city.
Mary Jane likes these shoes. She wants to buy them.
Mark only has a little cut. Mark didn't hurt himself badly.
These are the subject, object, and reflexive pronouns in English:

| SUBJECT | OBJECT | REFLEXIVE |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| I | me | myself |
| you | you | yourself, yourselves |
| he | him | himself |
| she | her | herself |
| it | it | itself |
| we | us | ourselves |
| they | them | themselves |

One is an indefinite subject pronoun. Oneself is an indefinite reflexive pronoun. They are used for making general statements that are used in more formal contexts.

One needs to be careful going out late at night.
It's easy to hurt oneself on a large waterslide.
In most settings, especially informal ones, English speakers use you to make general statements. In these statements, you refers to people in general, not to the listener.

You need to be careful going out late at night.
It's easy to hurt yourself on a large waterslide.

Erowner

Usually, you is not acceptable in formal writing, such as essays for school. One is too formal for essays or business letters. In these types of writing, avoid using you and one by paraphrasing.

Y You need to be careful going out late at night. (too informal for essay)
X It's easy to hurt yourself on a large waterslide. (too informal for essays)

| :--- | :--- |
| You | are hungry. |
| He | is hungry. |
| She | is hungry. |
| It | is hungry |
| We | are hungry. |
| They | are hungry. |

Subject pronouns refer to another noun or person in the situation who is the subject of the sentence.

He lives here.
I am a construction worker.
We use it to form impersonal expressions. In impersonal expressions, it is not a pronoun and does not replace or refer to another word.

It's raining. It's ten o'clock.
For information on expressions with the impersonal it, see page 265.
Some languages have only one pronoun for singular nouns. English has three separate pronouns for singular nouns:

| he | male |
| :--- | :--- |
| she | female |
| it | object |

AVOID THE

Object pronouns can also be the object of a preposition.

The salad is near The salad is near The salad is near The salad is near The salad is near The salad is near The salad is near me.
you.
him.
her.
it.
them.

Indirect Objects

An indirect object tells who or what the action was done for. We can express an indirect object in two ways:

For or to and the indirect object or pronoun
Sam moved to Chicago last month, so we gave a going-away party for him.
We gave presents to them.
The verb followed by the indirect and direct objects
Sam moved to Chicago last month, so we gave him a going-away party.
We gave them presents.
With some verbs, we state the indirect object with for or to. Usually, the preposition for implies that someone is being helped.

We sent it to them. (They received it.)
We sent it for them. (We helped them by mailing it.)
I wrote a letter for him. (I helped by writing the letter.)
I wrote a letter to him. (I sent him the letter.)

Compound Objects

A compound object consists of two or more nouns or pronouns.
He gave Mary and him a thoughtful wedding gift.
For the sake of politeness, people usually mention themselves last in a compound object.
The boss gave Vickie and me a difficult assignment.

avoid the Error

Do not use subject pronouns in compound objects.
X Please bring John and I some water.

Indefinite Pronouns

English has a number of indefinite pronouns, such as all, neither, several, everybody, oneself, both, and so on.

Everyone loves ice cream!

Do you want chocolate or vanilla? I don't want either. I want strawberry.
Some indefinite pronouns are singular; others are plural.
Singular: another, anybody, anyone, anything, each, either, everybody, everything, nobody, no one, neither, nothing, one, oneself, somebody, someone, something Plural: both, few, many, others, several
A few indefinite pronouns are singular or plural, depending on the use: all, any, more, most, none, some.

All the neighbors are invited to the block party. (Neighbors is plural.)
All the furniture was covered in dust. (Furniture is an uncountable noun.)
English speakers use you and they to make general statements.
You should always stop completely at a red light.
I wonder if the train is late. I hope they make an announcement.
English speakers often use they and them in place of he or she when they do not know if the person is male or female.

Who's knocking at the door? I don't know, but don't let them in.
If an employee loses their ID badge, they have to go to the security office to request a new one.

Enownor

In very formal writing, avoid using they, their, and them to refer to unknown or indefinite singular nouns. Use he or she, or rewrite the sentence.

If an employee loses their ID badge, they have to go to the security office to request a new one.
$\checkmark$ If an employee loses his or her ID badge, he or she has to go to the security office to request a new one.

I like it here.

Reflexive Pronouns

A reflexive pronoun is an object pronoun that refers to the same person as the subject of the verb.
A reflexive pronoun can be a direct or indirect object.

He cut himself.

I bought myself a new car.

avoid тне Error

You may hear some people use the improper forms hisself, themself, and theirselves. The correct forms are himself and themselves.

X He cut hisself.
\checkmark He cut himself.

The reflexive pronouns are the only pronouns in English that have singular and plural forms for you: yourself and yourselves.

Laura, did you hurt yourself when you slipped?
You kids need to stop running around, or you'll hurt yourselves.

avoin twe error

Do not use yourself or yourselfs in place of yourselves.

You guys might hurt yourselfs if you jump off the train before it stops.
X You guys might hurt yourself if you jump off the train before it stops.

English speakers use reflexive pronouns to emphasize that they are doing the action. In these cases, the word is not a true reflexive.

I cleaned the whole house myself.
Mary Lou knitted this sweater herself.

AVOID THE

Avoid pronoun shift. Pronoun shift happens when you refer to a noun with pronouns of a different person, number, or gender. For example, you first refer to a noun with one pronoun, such as you, and then switch to another form, such as they. When you refer to a noun with a pronoun, all of the pronouns that refer to that noun should be in the same person, gender, and number.

X If you practice a sport like roller-skating, it's easy to hurt oneself if you're not careful.  $\checkmark$ If you practice a sport like roller-skating, it's easy to hurt yourself if you're not careful.

Reflexive verbs often use reflexive pronouns. Common reflexive verbs include cut, hurt, look at, and admire. For more information on reflexive verbs, see page 203.

avoid the error

In English, reflexive pronouns are used less frequently than in many other languages.

```
X He washed himself before leaving work.
    \checkmark He washed up before leaving work.
```

In English, it's unusual to have a reflexive pronoun and a direct object, unlike other languages.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ He washed himself his hands. $\checkmark$ He washed his hands.

Demonstrative Pronouns

This, that, these, and those can be used as pronouns. This and that are singular; these and those are plural. Use this and these for nearby objects or people; use that and those for distant objects or people.

|  | NEAR | FAR |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| Singular | this | that |
| Plural | these | those |

This is delicious.
That is the reason why.
Please give me one of those.
I don't like these.

now wierror

Avoid unclear reference with pronouns. Unclear reference happens when a pronoun can refer to more than one word or has no clear reference.

```
X Laura told Crystal that she looks great today. (She can refer to Laura or Crystal.)
X When Mark put the new disk drive in the computer, he broke it. (It can refer to the disk drive or computer.)
```

$\checkmark$ Laura told Crystal, "You look great today."
$\checkmark$ When Mark put the new disk drive in the computer, he broke the computer.

Interrogative Pronouns

We use the interrogative pronouns to form questions. The main interrogative pronouns include who, what, where, when, why, and how.

Who did you call?
What did you order?
Where did you go on vacation?
When did you arrive?
Why did you sell your car?

A verb phrase can also be formed with a modal verb and a verb.
He will arrive soon.

Verb Tense

Verbs change forms to show different tenses. A tense tells when the action happened.
She loves her new home. (present)
He shopped at the supermarket yesterday. (past)
They will arrive tomorrow. (future)
Verb forms also show whether the action is always true, completed, or in progress.
Giraffes have long necks. (always true)
She is running. (in progress)
He's been a teacher for three years. (began in the past and is true now)
Many verbs are related to nouns or adjectives and have the same forms.

We raced each other. She won the race.
The room is clean. Let's clean the room.
They put the juice in bottles. They bottled the juice.
Sometimes, a suffix will change a word into a verb.
He lowered the shades to darken the room.
He will authorize the employees to leave early.
This table shows suffixes that can change words to verbs:

SUFFIX
```

-fy
-ize
-en
-ate

FUNCTION

avoid the Error

Do not make new verbs from nouns or adjectives.

Transitive and Intransitive Verbs

Verbs can be transitive or intransitive. Transitive and intransitive verbs are all action verbsthey show actions. Transitive verbs can have a direct object.

He ate an apple.
An intransitive verb cannot have a direct object.
He swims every morning.

nownerror

Do not use a direct object with an intransitive verb.

He swam her.

He swam.
He swam with her.

In the last sentence, with her is a prepositional phrase that modifies the verb. It is not a direct object.

Linking Verbs

A linking verb connects the subject of a sentence to information about the subject. Linking verbs are not action verbs. Linking verbs show a state. Common linking verbs include be, become, and seem.

Rhonda is a teacher.
Marylou is sick today.
Jane became a teacher in 2007.
Mark seems tired today.
A linking verb can be followed by an adjective, adverb, or noun.
The book is expensive, (adjective)
The book is on the table, (prepositional phrase that functions as an adverb)
The book is a masterpiece, (noun)
A noun can follow a verb such as be or become, but these nouns are not direct objects. These nouns are complements of verbs. A complement refers to the subject of the sentence.

He became a teacher in 2008. (Teacher refers to he.)
She is our neighbor. (Neighbor refers to her.)

avoid the error

Even though complements are not objects of the verb, speakers normally do not use subject pronouns for them. They use object pronouns.

Who's at the door? $\quad \times$ It's $\mathbf{I}$, Tim. $\quad \checkmark$ It's me, Tim.

For more information about pronouns, see page 88.
Some verbs, such as feel, taste, smell, look, and turn, can be linking verbs or action verbs with different but related meanings. This table shows related linking and action verbs:

LINKING VERB
This cheese tastes terrible.
Magda turned red.
You look tired.
She appears tired.

ACTION VERB
Tim tasted the cheese.
Magda turned the page.
Please look at page 21.
Harry Potter suddenly

This table shows the negative forms of the simple present tense of be:

FORMAL

Now wierror

Do not confuse homonyms such as its and it's, we're and were, or they're, their, and there. Pronoun + verb contractions (such as it's and they're) always have an apostrophe. The possessive its never has an apostrophe.

X I just got a new dog. Its very friendly and good with children.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ Were ready to leave.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ I think that their lost.
X I think there lost.

For more information on homonyms, see page 15.
He, she, it, we, you, and they + be + not all have two contracted forms. The two forms can be used interchangeably.

They're not here. They aren't here.
I am not has only one contracted form: I'm not.
I'm not in my car. I'm on the bus.

avoid the efror

Do not use amn't or ain't. Use I am not or I'm not.

```
X I ain't late. \checkmark I am not late.

Forms of be can also be in contractions with nouns, proper nouns, and question words in speech and informal writing.

Where's the bathroom?
When's the meeting?
How's the salad?

Pat's the boss.
The door's open. Please close it.

Avoid the erfor

In contractions, apostrophes replace the letters that are deleted.

X He is'nt at work today. }\quad\checkmark\mathrm{ He isn't at work today.
X Theyr'e at the supermarket. }\checkmark\mathrm{ They're at the supermarket.

AVOID THECTVI

In informal speech and writing, you may indicate a yes/no question with rising intonation only (that is, without the inversion of subject and verb) and a question mark-often when expressing surprise. In formal writing, always invert the subject and verb and use a question mark.

Normally, when speaking, people do not say am I not in questions. They usually say aren't I.

Formation

Form imperatives using the base form of the verb.
Be quiet! (command)
Stop talking! (command)
Have a can of soda! (offer)
Turn left at the fountain. (directions)
Watch out! A bus is coming. (warning)
For negative imperatives, use do not or don't.
Don't walk on the grass.
Do not drink coffee at bedtime.
Use let's to make suggestions and give commands that include the speaker. Let's is short for let us.
Let's go shopping.
Let's hurry up.
The negative form of let's is let's not:
Let's not forget our umbrellas today. It looks like rain.

avoin the Error

We use exclamation marks with imperatives to express strong emotion. If the imperative is a simple instruction or explanation, an exclamation mark is not needed.

| $\mathbf{x}$ Watch out for the car. | Watch out for the car! (said  when a car is about to hit  someone) |
| :--- | :--- |

For more information on exclamation marks, see pages 32-33.

We can add you to an imperative to soften the imperative or to get the listener's attention.
You sit here for the present.

Making Polite Requests

Imperatives are not always the best way to make a suggestion or a polite request. To make polite requests, you can add the word please to an imperative. Please can come at the beginning or end of a sentence.

Please hang your coat in the hall closet.
Hang your coat in the hall closet, please.
English speakers can also use let's to soften the imperative.
Let's hang your coat in the hall closet.
In addition, English speakers can use sentences and questions with modal verbs such as can or could.

You can hang your coat in the closet.
Can you hang your coat in the closet?
Could you hang your coat in the closet?
For information on modal verbs, see page 174.

avoid the error

When a polite request is phrased as a question, a question mark is needed.

$\boldsymbol{X}$ Can we receive the shipment by January 25 .  $\checkmark$ Can we receive the shipment  by January 25 ?

We can also form polite requests with I'd like.
I'd like you to hang your coat in the closet. (In this situation, I'd like is stronger than can or could.)

I'd like is common in restaurants and other situations when you are ordering.
I'd like a large orange juice, please.

avoid the Error

In polite situations, use polite requests, not imperatives.
$X$ Give us a table for two.

$\checkmark$ We'd like a table for two.

Imperatives with Have

English uses have in many expressions in the imperative. We use these expressions to offer invitations and express hopes and wishes.

Formation

Modal verbs include:

| can | could | may | might |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| must | should | ought to | would |

avoid the error

The modal verbs can, could, may, might, must, should, or would are followed by the base form of a verb. Do not use to after these modal verbs. Use the base form of the verb without to. Do not add -s, -ed, or -ing to the base form of the verb.

\begin{aligned}
& \boldsymbol{X} \text { They can to come to the party. } \checkmark \text { They can come to the party. } \\
& \boldsymbol{X} \text { She might bringing a friend } \\
& \text { to the party. } \end{aligned}
$$

Use to after ought.
You ought wash your car.
$\checkmark$ You ought to wash your car.
Do not add -s, -ed, or -ing to the infinitive that follows ought.

She ought to cut the lawn.

To form the negative forms of modal verbs, insert not or -n't after the modal verb.
I can't dance very well.
You shouldn't go to bed so late on a work night.

AVOID THE

Can + not is written as one word: cannot

X You can not park in front of a fire hydrant.
$\checkmark$ You cannot park in front of a fire hydrant.

Meanings of Modal Verbs

A modal verb can have more than one meaning. Here are the meanings of the main modal verbs.

Can and Could

Can expresses an ability in the present. Could expresses ability in the past.
I can dance, but I can't sing.
When I was twenty, I could dance all night.
I couldn't finish my dinner, because I had a stomachache.

avoid the error

To express ability in the future, use able to, not can.

Can and could express requests in the present and the future.

Can you help me with my math homework?
Could you bring me a cup of coffee?
Can expresses permission in the present or future.
You can use this computer to send e-mail.
John, you can't stay out past 10:30 tonight.

avoid tie Error

Normally, we don't turn down a request with No, you can't, or No, you couldn't, without giving a reason or more information.

Can I go to the movies with Mark? X No, you can't.
$\checkmark$ No you can't. You have to do your homework.

Can and could express possibility in the present or future.
If we have time, we can go to the mall after the movie.
We could get some ice cream after dinner.
Could expresses a suggestion in the present or future.
We could have a mechanic check that used car before we buy it.

avoid the Error

Modal verbs cannot be used as infinitives. Use a verb or an expression with a related meaning. For example, for can, use to be able to.

X I hope to can go to the movies tonight.

$\checkmark$ I hope to be able to go to the movies tonight.

Must

Must expresses an obligation in the present or future.
You must wear a seat belt when you are in a car.
You must not smoke in a movie theater.

The opposite of must is don't have to.
You don't have to take the bus to work. You can walk, drive, or take the subway.
To talk about an obligation in the past, use had to:
I had to file my tax return yesterday.
Have to has a meaning similar to must, but have to is not a modal. It has a past-tense form (had to) and is followed by an infinitive, not a base verb.

We have to leave now.
Our car wouldn't start, so we had to call a tow truck.

Should and Ought To

The modal verbs should and ought to make recommendations or suggestions.
You should get eight hours of sleep every night.
You shouldn't stay out late at night before work.
You ought to visit your mother more often.

now wrin

The negative form of ought to is oughtn't to, but English speakers normally do not use this form. Use should not or shouldn't instead.
$X$ You oughtn't to drive so fast. $\checkmark$ You shouldn't drive so fast.

Had better is also used to make recommendations or suggestions. Generally, had better is a stronger recommendation than ought to or should. The contraction for had better is 'd better.

You'd better hurry up, or you'll be late for work!
You'd better not be late for work again, or you'll get fired!

Would

We use would to talk about what was going to happen in the past.
He said that he would come.
The contraction of would is 'd.

He said he'd come.

avoid the Erfor

The contraction ' $d$ can stand for had writing the full form.
He said he'd help us.

He said he'd arrived
X He said he had help us.
$\checkmark$ He said he would help us.

* He said he would arrived.
$\checkmark$ He said he had arrived.

We use would like (or its contraction 'd like) to make polite offers and requests.

avoid the Erfor

Do not confuse 'd like (want) with like (prefer).
$X$ I'd like milk.
$X$ I like milk.
$\checkmark$ I like milk. (a preference)
$\checkmark$ I'd like milk. (a request)

Would expresses repeated actions in the past.
Every winter we would go sledding and skating.

May and Might

May expresses permission in the present or future.
You may have another piece of cake.
You may not go out after ten o’clock at night.

avoid тне Erfor

May is not normally used in ordinary speech to talk about permission. Most speakers use can.

Might expresses an optional action in the future or present.
If you miss the bus, you might take a cab to work.
You might add a bit of lemon juice to your iced tea.
May and might express possibility in the present and future. Generally, may is considered more likely than might.

Where is Mike? He may be in the bedroom.
Tomorrow it might rain.

avoid twe error

Do not confuse may be (modal verb may and verb be) with maybe (an adverb expressing uncertainty).
$X$ He maybe outside.
$\checkmark$ He may be outside.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ May be he's sick. $\quad \checkmark$ Maybe he's sick.

Must Be, Could Be, Might Be

Three modal verb + be combinations express speculation.
John is absent today. He must be sick. (very certain)
John is absent today. He could be sick. (somewhat certain)
John is absent today. He might be sick. (not very certain)
To speculate that something is not the case, use can't be or couldn't be
Mr. Fox has been in the hospital for days. He can't be well.
George left for the store ten minutes ago. He couldn't be back already.

Polite Requests with May, Can, and Could

We can make polite requests with may, can, and could.
May I have a glass of water?
Can I have some sugar for my coffee?
Could you pass me the salt, please?
Normally, we agree to these requests with words such as:

Of course.
Sure.
Yes, you can (may).

avoid the Error

Normally, people do not turn down polite requests with "No, you can't," "No, you may not," or "No, you couldn't," which listeners interpret as impolite. Instead, give a reason.

Can/Could/May I have some stamps?
$x$ No, you can't.
$X$ No, you may not.
X No, you could not.
$\checkmark$ Sorry, but we're out of stamps right now.

- Sorry, but we don't have stamps right now.

For more information on polite requests, see page 142.

When can/could, will/would, or may/might follow another clause + that, such as "he says that," use can, will, or may if the first verb is in the present tense. Use could, would, or might if the first verb is in the past tense.

Malcolm says that he will come.
Malcolm said that he would come.
If Malcolm said that he is coming, and the speaker and listener are still waiting for Malcolm to arrive, they might say:

Malcolm said that he will come.

Questions with Modal Verbs

To form yes/no questions with modal verbs, invert the subject and the modal verb, and add a question mark. For wh- questions, insert a question word, invert the subject and modal verb, and add a question mark.

Can you help me shovel the snow?
Where can I buy some stamps?
For questions where the question word is the subject, do not invert the subject and modal verb.
Who can help me fix dinner?

Do not use do or forms of do to form questions or negatives with modal verbs.

Abbie loves her dogs. (singular subject and verb)
John and Larry are farmers. (plural subject and verb)

avoin tie error

Singular nouns that end in $-s$, such as politics, news, gymnastics, and mathematics, need a singular verb.

$\checkmark$ I think that mathematics is fascinating.

All the furniture is covered in dust. (Furniture is an uncountable noun.)
Many grammar books say that none is singular because it means "not one."

However, in ordinary speech, people often use a plural verb with none.
None of the girls are here.
Money is an uncountable noun, so it takes a singular verb.
Money isn't everything, but it sure makes life easier.

avoid the Error

The word dollars is plural, but it takes a singular verb when it is used to indicate an amount of money.

X I can't believe that twelve dollars are the cost of a movie ticket!  $\checkmark$ I can't believe that twelve dollars is the cost of a movie ticket!

X That new pair of pants look great!

$\checkmark$ That new pair of pants looks great!

- Numbers are usually plural.

VERBS  Passive Voice

John sold that car weeks ago.
The barking scared off the robbers.
We use the passive voice to give importance to the action.
That car was sold weeks ago.
The robbers were scared off.
Only transitive verbs can be used in passive-voice sentences. Transitive verbs can have direct or indirect objects. This table shows active- and passive-voice sentences with direct and indirect objects:

active

Thieves stole the painting.
He told her the news yesterday.

PASSIVE

The painting was stolen.
She was told the news
yesterday.
The news was told to her yesterday.

For more information on transitive verbs, see page 120.

avoid тне Efror

Intransitive verbs, which do not have objects, cannot be used in the passive voice.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ The meeting was taken place. (passive voice) $\checkmark$ The meeting took place yesterday. (active voice)

Formation

To form the passive voice:
The subject is deleted.
The object of the verb becomes the subject of the passive sentence.

A form of the verb be is added.
The main verb becomes a past participle.
Here are some examples of active-voice and passive-voice (in bold) sentences.
John sold that car weeks ago. $\rightarrow$ That car was sold weeks ago.
The barking scared off the $\rightarrow$ The robbers were scared off. robbers.

For a list of past participles, see pages 164-165.
If a verb has a direct object and an indirect object, either one can become the subject (bold) of the passive-voice sentence:

| We gave the retirees gold  watches. | $\rightarrow$Gold watches were given to  the retirees. |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
|  | $\rightarrow$The retirees were given gold  watches. |

avom the Error

When an object pronoun of an active-voice sentence becomes the subject of a passive-voice sentence, change the object pronoun to a subject pronoun.

I helped her. $\rightarrow \boldsymbol{X}$ Her was helped. $\checkmark$ She was helped.

To form the passive voice:
In the simple present or simple past. Use a form of be and the past participle of the main verb.

| This restaurant serves  homemade soup daily. | $\rightarrow$ | Homemade soup is served  daily. |
| :---: | :---: | :---: |
| They served eight different  kinds of soup yesterday. | $\rightarrow$ | Eight different kinds of soup  were served yesterday. |

I In the present progressive tense or the past progressive tense. Use a form of be, the present participle being, and the past participle of the main verb.

avoin the Error

Do not omit be from passive-voice sentences.
X Lincoln assassinated in 1865.
Lincoln was assassinated in 1865.

To state the doer of the action in a passive-voice sentence, use the subject of the active-voice sentence in a phrase with by.

> John delivered those pizzas. $\rightarrow$ Those pizzas were delivered by John.
> Sabrina typed this document. $\rightarrow$ This document was typed by Sabrina.

avoid the Efror

When the subject of an active-voice sentence is a pronoun and it moves to a by-phrase in a passive-voice sentence, change the subject pronoun to an object pronoun.

I called her. }->\boldsymbol{X}\mathrm{ She was called }\boldsymbol{\checkmark}\mathrm{ She was called by I.
by me.
```

Indirect objects from an active-voice sentence can be stated in a passive-voice sentence with to or for.

The girls bought a present for Alice.
The girls gave a present to Alice.

nownerror

Sometimes the noun that follows to or for is not an indirect object. Rather, the prepositional phrase is really an adverb. When the prepositional phrase is an adverb, the noun cannot become the subject of a passive-voice sentence. Only the direct and indirect objects can become the subjects of a passive-voice sentence.

Active: After the accident, the insurance company gave me money for a new car.

Passive:

X A new car was given money for to me.
$\checkmark$ I was given money for a new car. (indirect object)
$\checkmark$ Money was given to me for a new car. (direct object)

Expressing the doer of the action in a by phrase is optional.
For selling the most cars this month, Mr. Baldus was given a free trip to Jamaica by the sales manager.

For selling the most cars this month, Mr. Baldus was given a free trip to Jamaica.

avoid тне Error

Because the passive voice focuses on the action, and not on the doer of the action, we usually do not state the doer of the action in a by phrase. Avoid stating the doer of the action in passive-voice sentences. If stating the subject is important, consider using the active voice instead.

X The packages were all mailed this morning by Gerardo.
$\checkmark$ The packages were all mailed this morning.
$\checkmark$ Gerardo mailed all the packages this morning.

Sometimes, the meaning of the sentence changes slightly in the passive voice.
Many people attended the party.
The party was well-attended.

AVOID THE CTfOT

When the doer of the action uses a tool to complete the action, use a phrase with with to show the tool.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ The vegetables were sliced by a sharp knife.

The drainpipe was opened by a heavy-duty pipe wrench.
$\checkmark$ The vegetables were sliced with a sharp knife. (The chef used the knife to cut the vegetables.)
$\checkmark$ The drainpipe was opened with a heavy-duty pipe wrench. (A plumber used the pipe wrench.)

When a tool or object does the action itself, use a phrase with by.

She was cut with flying glass.
$\checkmark$ She was cut by flying glass.
(Flying glass cut her.)

Uses of the Passive Voice

We use the passive voice when:

We are more concerned about the action or the receiver of the action than about the doer.
In Maine Park, more than two hundred trees were damaged by the storm.
An oak tree more than four hundred years old was completely destroyed by the storm.

nownerror

Reflexive verbs are not used in the passive voice.

X She was accidentally cut by herself.

The subject is unknown or indefinite.
Rome wasn't built in a day.
The explosion was heard all over the city.
We want to avoid assigning responsibility for something.
His car was totaled in the accident.
Your application will be reviewed, and you will be informed of the outcome.
The subject is vague or unknown.
English is understood in most hotels around the world.
This form needs to be signed.

avoid the Erfor

Do not overuse the passive voice. The passive voice is acceptable in speech and informal writing. But good writers avoid the passive voice in more formal kinds of writing, such as business letters and school papers, when it's possible to use the active voice. Overuse of the passive voice makes writing flat and uninteresting. Use the active voice instead.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ That new house was put up in about three months. First a big hole was dug. Then cement was poured to make the foundation. After that, brick walls were built. Finally, the roof was put on. The house was moved into about a month ago.

The builders put up that new house in about three months. First, workers dug a big hole. Then a cement truck poured cement to make the foundation. After that, bricklayers built the walls. Finally, carpenters and roofers put the roof on. A family moved into the house about a month ago.

The Get Passive

We can use a form of the verb get and a past participle to form passive-voice sentences. We use the "get passive" in informal English.

Fred got robbed.

They got hurt in the accident.
We got invited to the party.
The students are getting confused.
Max got fired.

now Error

Avoid using the get passive in formal, written English.

VERBS  Two-Word Verbs

English has many two-word verbs. Sometimes these are called "phrasal verbs." They are formed with a verb plus a preposition or adverb.

He woke up at 5:30 yesterday.
Then he turned over and went back to sleep.
Please sit down.
He got out of the car.
Like other verbs, two-word verbs can have an object.
Let's turn on the headlights.
Please wake up Jim and Dan.
We will get off the train in another hour.
Two-word verbs are either separable or inseparable, depending on whether the object can come before or after the preposition.

Please turn up the sound. Please turn the sound up.

(separable)
She's looking after the children. (inseparable)

Inseparable Two-Word Verbs

With inseparable two-word verbs, the object of the verb must come after the preposition. It cannot come between the verb and the preposition.

She's looking after the children.

She's looking after them.

avoid the Error

Don't separate inseparable two-word verbs with an object.

\begin{aligned}
& x \text { She's looking the children } \quad \checkmark \begin{array}{l} \text { She's looking after the } \\ \text { children. }
\end{array} \\ & \text { after. } \end{aligned}
$$

Common inseparable two-word verbs include:

| get in | get over  go over | get through  keep off | give up  look into |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |

nom wierror

Return back is not an English construction. Use return or return + a place.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ We returned back at 2:30. $\quad \mathbf{W}$ We returned at 2:30.
We returned home at 2:30.

Separable Two-Word Verbs

With separable two-word verbs, the object of the verb can come after the preposition or between the verb and the preposition.

He turned the TV off. He turned off the TV.
However, a pronoun can go only between the verb and the preposition. A pronoun cannot go after the preposition.

He turned it off.

avoid the Erfor

Don't put the pronoun after a separable two-word verb.
$X$ Please bring back it.
$\checkmark$ Please bring it back.
$X$ I put away them.
$\checkmark$ I put them away.

Common separable two-word verbs include:

| bring back | call back  pick up | cross off  put away | look over  take out | talk over |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| look up | pian |  |  |  |

Exercise

Can the underlined word move elsewhere in the sentence? Write yes or no.

1. He brought up a problem.
2. She turned the lights off.
3. Let's try to get through all the exercises today.
4. I need to take the trash out.
5. I need to pick up some milk.

7. Please finish your test and turn It in to me.
8. We need to talk over this problem.
9. Let's finish up our work so we can go home.

0 . He ran into his best friend at the mall.

VERBS  Reflexive and Reciprocal Verbs

Reflexive Verbs

We use a reflexive pronoun with a verb when the subject and the object are the same. When a verb can be used with a reflexive pronoun, we call it a reflexive verb.

He taught himself Mexican cooking. She introduced herself to the audience.
I slipped and hurt myself.
The reflexive pronouns are shown in the following table:

SUBJECT PRONOUN
I you he she we they

REFLEXIVE PRONOUN myself yourself, yourselves himself herself ourselves themselves

Error

The only pronouns with singular and plural forms are yourself and yourselves.

$x$ John and Mary, did you hurt $\quad \checkmark$| John and Mary, did you hurt |
| :--- |
| yourselves on the |
| yourself on the waterslide? |
| waterslide? |

We often use reflexive pronouns with verbs such as blame, cut, enjoy, hurt, introduce, repeat, and teach.

Mrs. O'Dowd always repeats herself when she's talking.
Phyllis sometimes blames herself for her son’s problems.
It's easy to hurt yourself driving recklessly on a scooter.
Let's go around the room and introduce ourselves.

AVOID THE

Verbs such as wash and shave imply that the subject and the object are the same, but we normally do not use a reflexive pronoun with these verbs.

X Remember to shave yourself before a job interview.  $\checkmark$ Remember to shave before a job interview.

In some languages, a reflexive pronoun is used with verbs such as wash and shave, along with a direct object (the part of the body being washed). In English, use only the direct object.

X You should wash yourself your hands before eating.

$\checkmark$ You should wash your hands before eating.

We can use a reflexive pronoun with verbs such as wash, dry, and shave for emphasis. I dried myself off completely before I got dressed.

Speakers sometimes use reflexive pronouns to emphasize that the subject performed the action personally.

The boss told me himself that we can leave work early today.
If you won't clean the kitchen yourself, then you shouldn't use it.

AVOID THE

Do not use a reflexive pronoun as the subject of a sentence.
X John and myself checked the shipment carefully.
$\checkmark$ John and I checked the shipment carefully.

Reciprocal Verbs

Reciprocal verbs imply that the subjects of the verb did the action of the verb to another. With verbs like these, we can use a phrase such as each other or one another.

They met each other in 2007 and got married in 2008.
Those boys keep hitting one another.
Common reciprocal verbs include:

| agree argue | communicate | cooperate | disagree |  |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| fight | hit | meet | talk |  |

Exercise

Complete the sentences by writing the correct reflexive pronoun on the line.

1. She fell down and hurt $\qquad$ .
2. I am going to buy $\qquad$ a new computer this year.
3. Did you and Mark enjoy $\qquad$ at the party?
4. John always repeats $\qquad$ when he speaks.
5. Alan and Frank introduced $\qquad$ to each other at the meeting.

VERBS  Infinitives, Gerunds, and Participles

Infinitives

An infinitive is the base form of the verb with to in front of it.

| to eat | to like  to live | to be  to run |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | to take care of

An infinitive can come after:
An action verb. As this term implies, action verbs show action.
I hope to go to China this year.
They want him to go to college.
He needs to find his car keys.
The object of a verb. In this case, the object of the verb is similar to a "subject" of the infinitive.

I want my kids to go to the circus tomorrow.
He asked his neighbors to be quiet after 10:00.
He told his son to do his homework.

avoid the Error

Do not use a that clause after want. Use an infinitive.

$$
\begin{aligned}
& x \text { I want that you wash the } \quad \checkmark \begin{array}{l} \text { I want you to wash the } \\ \text { dishes. }
\end{array} \\
& \text { dishes. }
\end{aligned}
$$

A verb such as be, seems, and so on.

Their usual pastime is to watch TV every night.
Andrew seems to be tired today.
You appear to like classical music.
An infinitive can be the subject of a sentence.

To know her is to love her.
To stay indoors on such a nice day would be silly.
To win is my only goal.
An infinitive and all the words that go with it are called an infinitive phrase. An infinitive can have:

An object
The teacher wants all the students to take their seats.
We need to buy some vegetables.
My boss told me to clean the bathroom.
An adverb
The librarian told the children to speak quietly.
She wants to leave soon.
I like to work a crossword puzzle every morning.

now Error

In formal writing, do not split an infinitive-that is, insert another word, such as a negative word or an adverb, between to and the base form of the verb.

```
X I told him to not make so much noise.
* Please help me to quickly wash the dishes.
```

$\checkmark$ I told him not to make so much noise.
$\checkmark$ Please help me to wash the dishes quickly.

An infinitive can follow:
It's + adjective
It's easy to make homemade bread.
It's fun to ride roller coasters.
It's illegal to drive without a seat belt.
For more information on impersonal expressions with it's, see page 265.
A question word, such as how, what, or which

He told us how to get to the train station.
I don't know what to do.
She knows where to buy delicious imported Greek olives.

- A noun such as plan, proposal, or suggestion

Her plan to drive for twenty-four hours straight seems unsafe.
His proposal to buy the newspaper company surprised everyone.
I don't like his suggestion to have the picnic on July 18.
An infinitive can tell the purpose of an action. You can also use in order to with this meaning.
She moved to Texas to take a job.
She went to her cottage in order to get away from the city for a few days.
We went to the theater to see Transformers 3.
We went to the theater in order to see Transformers 3.
Use infinitives in expressions with too + adjective + infinitive.
I am too busy to take a lunch break. I am going to eat at my desk.
It's too cold and windy to go to the beach. Let's go to a museum instead.
I am too tired to keep walking. Let's take a rest.

avoid the error

Do not confuse to and too.

X I am to tired too watch a movie.  $\checkmark$ I am too tired to watch a movie.

Use infinitives in expressions with an adjective + enough + infinitive.
Tanya is old enough to vote.
Ward is smart enough not to buy the first used car he sees.
You are intelligent enough to get into Harvard University.

AVOID THECTVI

In everyday speech, when an infinitive follows going, want, and got, people shorten the verb + infinitive to gonna, wanna, and gotta. These short forms are OK in everyday speech, but avoid them in more formal situations and in writing.
$\boldsymbol{X} \mathrm{He}$ is gonna arrive soon.
X I wanna buy some milk on the way home.
$\checkmark \mathrm{He}$ is going to arrive soon.
I want to buy some milk on the way home.

Gotta is often short for have got to.
X I gotta leave soon.
$\checkmark$ I've got to leave soon.

Infinitives Without To

Some verbs are followed by an infinitive without to. Do not use to after let, make (force), feel, watch, hear, or see.

The boss let us leave early yesterday.
The teacher made the boys stay after school.
I heard the choir sing a beautiful song.
I watched a bird build its nest.
The police officer saw a car run a red light.
Can you feel your pulse beat?
We can also use a gerund after watch, hear, see, or feel without a change in meaning.
I heard the choir singing a beautiful song.
I watched a bird building its nest.
The police officer saw a car running a red light.
Can you feel your pulse beating?
For information on gerunds, see page 210.
To is optional after help.

He helped the campers pitch their tents.
Let's help him change that flat tire.

He helped the campers to pitch their tents.
Let's help him to change that flat tire.

avoid the Error

Do not use to with these verbs:
The modal verbs will, can, could, may, might, would, should, or must $\boldsymbol{x}$ I can't to lend you five dollars. $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ I can't lend you five dollars.
$X$ I should to leave at six o'clock. I should leave at six o'clock.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ I might to eat a tuna sandwich $\checkmark$ I might eat a tuna sandwich for lunch. for lunch.

For information on modal verbs, see pages 174-182.
The auxiliary verb do (did, do, does) $\boldsymbol{X}$ I don't to like coffee. $\quad \checkmark$ I don't like coffee.
The verb let's $\boldsymbol{X}$ Let's to go to the supermarket $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ Let's go to the supermarket after lunch. after lunch.

Use an infinitive with to with the modal verbs ought to and have to/had to.

X You ought move to a bigger house.
$\boldsymbol{x}$ They have finish their homework.
$\checkmark$ You ought to move to a bigger house.
$\checkmark$ They have to finish their homework.

Gerunds

A gerund is a verb + -ing that is used as a noun.
Swimming is great exercise.
Gerunds are spelled in the same way as present participles. For spelling rules, see page 138.
A gerund can be:
The subject or object of a sentence
Skiing is fun.
I love skiing in winter and playing golf in summer.
They started laughing.
As subjects, gerunds are more common than infinitives. Using an infinitive as the subject occurs mainly in writing.

To win is my only goal. (less usual)

Winning is my only goal.
(more usual)

For more information on infinitives, see page 206.

The complement of a verb
Her favorite pastime is sewing.

- The object of a preposition

He's interested in learning English.
This pan is good for frying fish.
She accused him of stealing her purse.
For more information on prepositions, see pages 238-255.
The object of a verb
I hate ironing, but I like washing dishes.
English has many expressions with go + gerund:
He likes to go fishing.
She loves to go shopping.
Abbie loves to go hiking.

now Exror

Not all gerunds are used as verbs, and sometimes the gerunds and related verbs have different forms.

These gerunds usually are not used as main verbs: boating, rock climbing, canoeing, mountain climbing, skateboarding, and weight-lifting. These verbs are usually used in expressions with go + gerund.

X He boats on weekends.

X Julie will rock climb next weekend.
$\checkmark$ He goes boating on weekends.
$\checkmark$ Julie will go rock climbing next weekend.

Others are used as a verb with a direct object.
Steve weight lifts every afternoon.
$\checkmark$ Steve lifts weights every afternoon.

A gerund can have:

A direct object
He is good at fixing bikes.
An adverb
She likes playing music loudly.
An adjective
The team needs better training.
Mr. Smith has poor hearing.
We can use a name, a possessive noun, or a possessive adjective as the "subject" of a gerund.
I worry about Victor getting into an accident.
Chuck is upset about her asking for a divorce.
A gerund, its subject, its objects, and its modifiers are often called a gerund phrase.

avoid the Error

A gerund phrase usually does not require any special punctuation. Do not use a comma, a semicolon, or a colon to set off a gerund phrase.

$\boldsymbol{x}$ Getting married for the $\boldsymbol{\checkmark}$ Getting married for the first first time, is a big decision. time is a big decision.

Most gerunds are uncountable nouns. However, a few are countable nouns. These are some common countable gerunds.
beginning That movie has a boring beginning, but the ending is better.
drawing He bought a drawing by a famous Mexican artist.
feeling I have a funny feeling about that man. I don't trust him.
hearing The prisoner will have a hearing before a judge on Thursday.
meeting There is an employee meeting Sunday night.
painting saying
Here is a famous painting by Leonardo da Vinci.
"Here today, gone tomorrow," is a common saying. warning The weatherman announced a tornado warning a few minutes ago.

For more information on countable and uncountable nouns, see page 51.

avoid the Error

To normally comes before an infinitive but not before a gerund. However, a few two-word verbs and other expressions with to can be followed by a gerund. Do not omit to from these expressions before a gerund: used to, look forward to, and take to.

X He is not used getting up }\quad\checkmark\mathrm{ He is not used to getting up early.
X We are looking forward
    going camping next weekend.
    He never really took working in that factory.
```

$\checkmark \mathrm{He}$ is not used to getting up early.

- We are looking forward to going camping next weekend.

He never really took to working in that factory.

For more information on two-word verbs, see page 200.

Verbs Followed by Gerunds or Infinitives

Some verbs can be followed by a gerund, some verbs can be followed by an infinitive, and other verbs can be followed by either.

They want to go to the video store.
I enjoy reading Harry Potter books.
She loves to dance. She loves dancing.

avoid the crfor

In sentences with two phrases joined by another word, always join two gerund phrases or two infinitive phrases. Do not join one of each.

X He forgot taking his wallet, so he had no money to pay for dinner.

He stopped to smoke ten years ago.

He forgot to take his wallet, so he had no money to pay for dinner.

He stopped smoking ten years ago.

Participles

There are two kinds of participles: present participles and past participles.
Present participles end in -ing. Present participles are used with a form of the verb be to form the present progressive and past progressive tenses.

He is eating lunch.
They were watching TV.
For rules on spelling present participles, see page 138. For more information on the present progressive tense, see pages 136-137. For more information on the past progressive tense, see page 158.

Regular past participles end in -ed. There are many irregular past participles. For a list of irregular past participles, see page 164. Past participles are used with the verb have to form the present perfect tense.

He has lived here for many years.
They have moved to Texas.
For more information on the present perfect tense, see page 161.
Present and past participles can be used as adjectives.
Freezing temperatures are expected tonight and tomorrow.
Frozen food is very convenient.
This computer is broken.
I need to use a working computer.
This is a fascinating TV show.
The party was very exciting.
Present-participle adjectives describe the feeling produced by an object or person. Pastparticiple adjectives describe the feelings of a person produced by an object, person, or activity.

This class is interesting.
I hate this boring movie.

All the students are interested in this class.
I was bored during the entire movie.

Present-participle adjectives can be used in front of a noun or after a verb such as be, feel, and seem.

This is a really boring movie.
Past-participle adjectives can be used before a noun.
The bored children went outside to play.
Only a few past-participle adjectives are used after verbs such as be, seem, and become.
He seems bored.
She became scared.
We felt pleased.
A participial and all the words that go with it, such as adverbs or objects, are called a participial phrase. A participial phrase can modify a whole sentence. An introductory participial phrase is set off with a comma.

Getting ready for the ball, Cinderella had the help of her fairy godmother.
Bored with her homework, Linda decided to watch TV.

now Error

Do not confuse an introductory participial phrase with a gerund as subject. A participial phrase requires a comma, but a gerund phrase as the subject does not.

X Taking a plane you will arrive much faster.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ Taking a plane, is faster than driving.
$\checkmark$ Taking a plane, you will arrive much faster. (participial phrase)
$\checkmark$ Taking a plane is faster than driving. (gerund phrase)

An introductory participial phrase needs to refer to the same person as the subject of the clause that follows it.

Driving to work, I stopped to buy a doughnut.

In this sentence, the person who was driving to work stopped to buy the doughnut.

now Enror

When a participial phrase doesn't refer to the subject of the main clause, it's called a "dangling participle." Dangling participles can be very confusing to readers. Fix a dangling participle by rewriting the sentence.

Driving to work, a traffic jam slowed me down. (This sentence implies that the traffic jam was driving to work.)
$\checkmark$ Driving to work, I was slowed down by a traffic jam.

Verbs
He ran quickly and completed the race in less than a minute.
She gets up early every day.
They already finished their work.
We stayed up late.

avoid the Erfor

An adjective, not an adverb, follows verbs such as be, seem, become, feel, look, sound, taste, and smell.

$\checkmark$ This cheese smells terrible.
Y You look tired.

Adjectives

Entire sentences

AVOID тіе ĆM

When an adverb is first in a sentence, it's followed by a comma.
X Happily she cashed her winning lottery ticket.
$\checkmark$ Happily, she cashed her winning lottery ticket.

Forming Adverbs

Many adverbs are formed by adding -ly to an adjective.

| sudden | $\rightarrow$ | suddenly  slow |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| slowly |  |  |

A few -ly words are both adjectives and adverbs.
monthly weekly daily early

My son has a weekly piano lesson. (adjective)
You should turn in your time card weekly, every Thursday. (adverb)
I am going to take the early bus to work today. (adjective)
I want to get to work very early. (adverb)

avoid the Error

Not all words that end in -ly are adverbs. Words such as friendly, lovely, and silly are all adjectives.
$\boldsymbol{X}$ He speaks to everyone friendly.
$\checkmark$ He is friendly with everyone he speaks to.
He speaks to everyone in a friendly way.

Spelling Rules for -ly Adverbs

Follow these rules for spelling -ly adverbs:
Add -ly to most adjectives.

| glad | $\rightarrow$ | gladly |
| :--- | :--- | :--- |
| proper | $\rightarrow$ | properly |
| nice | $\rightarrow$ | nicely |
| beautiful | $\rightarrow$ | beautifully |

avoid tie Error

To form the adverb form of full, add $-y$, not $-l y$.

xullly

If an adverb ends in consonant + -le, drop the \(-e\) and add \(-l y\).
\begin{tabular}{lll} terrible & \(\rightarrow\) & terribly \\ irritable & \(\rightarrow\) & irritably \\ horrible & \(\rightarrow\) & horribly
\end{tabular}

If an adjective ends in \(-y\), drop the \(-y\) and add -ily.
\begin{tabular}{lll}

Lately means "recently."
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) Late, I have been going swimming every morning.
\(\checkmark\) Lately, I have been going swimming every morning.

Late is also an adjective.
That teacher is very strict. She won't accept late work.

\section*{avoid the Error}

\(\boldsymbol{x}\) The train arrived lately today. \(\boldsymbol{\checkmark}\) The train arrived late today.

When days of the week are used as adverbs, on is optional. We can say Monday or on Monday.
He will arrive Monday. He will arrive on Monday.

\section*{avoid the crfor}

Do not use the definite article the with days of the week.
\(X\) I have a dentist's appointment the Monday.
\(X\) We have a holiday on the Tuesday.

Phrases with ago act as adverbs of time. These phrases tell how much time passed since an action happened.

He left an hour ago.
The party ended two hours ago.
Frank called a minute ago.

\section*{avoid the Erfor}

Use the simple past tense, and not the present perfect tense, with adverbs of time that imply a completed action, such as yesterday, last year, and phrases with ago.
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) He has arrived a week ago. \(\checkmark\) He arrived a week ago.
For more information on the simple past tense, see page 148. For more information on the \(X\) I went they're after work.

\section*{avoid the erfor}

Introductory infinitive, prepositional, and participial phrases are set off with commas:
X To get some exercise I went for a swim.
\(\checkmark\) To get some exercise, I went for a swim.

An introductory participial phrase should refer to the subject of the clause that follows it.
Feeling hungry, I headed to the kitchen.

\section*{avoid тне Error}

If an introductory participial phrase does not refer to the same subject as the clause that follows it, readers may feel confused. To fix this problem, rewrite the sentence.
```

X Going home, rain got in my car.

```
\(\checkmark\) While I was going home, rain got in my car.

\section*{avoid the crior}

In formal writing, do not split an infinitive by inserting an adverb between toand the base verb.

\section*{\(\boldsymbol{X}\) I told the students to quickly finish.}

Adverbs of time, manner, purpose, and place are often put at the end of the sentence.
There was a terrible rainstorm last night. (time)
The rain fell hard and fast. (manner)
She went shopping in order to buy a wedding present. (purpose)
He lives here. (place)
When adverbs of time, manner, purpose, and place are together, they are usually in the order shown in the following table:

PLACE OR \\ PURPOSE
\end{tabular} & TIME \\
She worked & busily & \begin{tabular}{l}

He made soup
\end{tabular} & \begin{tabular}{l}

\end{tabular} \\
They went & & to the mall & today. \\
& &
\end{tabular}

An adverb of manner also can go before the main verb.
She happily (manner) planted flowers in the flower beds (place).

\section*{avoid the crfor}

Do not place an adverb of time, place, or purpose before the main verb.
X I last night read a good book.
I read a good book last night.

An adverb of time, manner, place, or purpose can come at the beginning of a sentence for special emphasis.
Last night, there was a terrible rainstorm.
Busily, she planted flowers in the flower beds.
In the garden, there are many beautiful flowers.
In order to get some rest, he went to his cottage in the country.

\section*{avoid the Erfor}

lhe lottery.
\end{tabular}
lottery.

Adverbs of duration usually go at the end of the sentence.
He was in town (place) for a week (duration).
Adverbs of duration often go before an adverb of time.

The adverb of duration still goes before the main verb. Still can go before or after be as a main verb.

\(\boldsymbol{X}\) It will rain today maybe.

Adverbs such as very and really usually go before a main verb, an adjective, or another adverb.
We are really going to Disneyland.

She answered me very angrily.
The order of adverbs is complex, and English speakers often change the order for special emphasis. Pay attention as you listen and read to see how people change the order to emphasize different parts of the sentence.

A pronoun can follow a preposition.

\section*{CONDITIONAL SENTENCES}

We use conditional sentences to speculate about the results of actions in the present, future, and past.

If I win the lottery, I'll buy a new car. (future)
If I had time, I'd go to the movies with you. (present)
If we had arrived at the station sooner, we wouldn't have missed the train, (past)
Conditional sentences are formed with two clauses, an independent clause and a dependent clause. A clause has a complete subject and verb.

I am a teacher.
She will get a raise.
An independent clause can stand alone as a sentence.
They are my neighbors.
Dogs are great pets.
A dependent clause cannot stand alone as a sentence.
If I win the lottery
When she arrives
A dependent clause must be linked to another clause. We link dependent clauses to other clauses with words such as if and when. These words are called subordinating conjunctions.

I will always fly in first class if I win the lottery.
This table shows the clauses in future, present, and past conditional sentences:

DEPENDENT CLAUSE
If I win the lottery,
If I had time,
If we had arrived at the station sooner,

INDEPENDENT CLAUSE
I'll buy a new car.
I'd go to the movies with you. we wouldn't have missed the train.

Conditional sentences have one independent clause and one dependent clause. Since the dependent clause begins with a word such as if unless, or when, this clause is sometimes called the if clause.

If you lose your apartment keys, you'll need to call a locksmith.
We are going to go to the beach today unless it rains.
When the campfire is ready, we'll cook our hot dogs.

\section*{AVOID THE} Use a comma between the clauses of a conditional sentence only when the dependent (if)clause is first in the sentence.

```

X If I have the money I'll buy
a new car next year.
\checkmark If I have the money, I'll buy
a new car next year.
I'll buy a new car next year
if I have the money.

```

The three types of conditional sentences are called conditional 1, conditional 2, and conditional 3.

\section*{Conditional 1 Sentences}

Conditional 1 sentences talk about actions that are true or possible in the present or future.
If you are ready, we can begin the test.
If my car doesn't start, I'll call a tow truck.
If he has to work tomorrow, we won't go to the mall.

\section*{Formation}

Conditional 1 sentences are formed with:
- A dependent (if) clause in a present tense (simple present, present progressive, and present perfect)

An independent (main) clause in the simple present tense or future tense
If he finishes work early, he will go home.
If he's cooking dinner now, he won't want to go out to dinner with us.
If she has received my e-mail, she will come to work early tomorrow.
If you find his mobile phone, return it to him.
For more information on the present tense, see pages 123 and 129.
For more information on the imperative, see page 142.
For more information on the future tense, see page 171.
For more information on modal verbs, see page 174.

Do not use the simple future tense or going to in an if clause. Use a present tense or imperative.

X If I will win the lottery, I'll buy a new car.
\(\checkmark\) If I win the lottery, I'll buy a new car.

We can also use going to, an imperative, the present progressive tense, or a modal auxiliary verb in the main clause.

When we finish dinner, we can have some ice cream for dessert.
If you lose your driver's license, you should get a new one right away.
If you park near a fire hydrant, you might get a ticket.
If he wins the lottery, he's going to quit his job.
If you smell the odor of gas, turn off your stove and open a window. If the odor continues, leave your home immediately and call the gas company.

For more information on going to, see page 171. For more information on modal verbs, see page 174.

\section*{avoid тне Error}

We can also have conditional sentences with the simple present tense in the if clause and the simple present tense or imperative in the main clause. These sentences are often used for giving instructions or stating simple cause-and-effect relationships. These sentences are sometimes called "Conditional 0."
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) When my car doesn't start, I'll call my husband.
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) If your phone stops working, you'll check the battery.
\(\checkmark\) When my car doesn't start, I call my husband.

If your phone stops working, check the battery.

\section*{Clauses with Unless}

Unless means "if not" or "except if."
Unless it rains, we will go swimming.
They should arrive in a few minutes unless they are lost.

\section*{nowieuror}

Do not use unless when it does not mean "except if."
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) I'd be happy unless we weren't going to the party.

I'd be happy if we weren't going to the party.

\section*{Conditional 2 Sentences}

We use the conditional 2 to talk about actions that are not true in the present or future tense. We form the conditional 2 with an if clause in the simple past tense and a main clause with would or could. Even though the verbs appear to be in the past tense, the meaning of the sentence is in the present or future tense.

If I had a million dollars, I would use the money to buy stocks and bonds.
If your car was working, you could pick up Joan at work.
English speakers sometimes use were instead of was in the if clause, especially when giving advice with, "If I were you, ..."

If I were you, I'd stop smoking.

\section*{avoid tне Erfor}

Do not use would in an if clause. Use the simple past tense.
\(X \begin{aligned} & \text { I would buy a new car if I } \\ & \text { would have the money. }\end{aligned}\)
I would buy a new car if I had the money.

\section*{Conditional 3 Sentences}

We use conditional 3 sentences to talk about past actions that are contrary to fact. We often use conditional 3 to express regret about things that didn't happen.

If I had finished high school, I would have gotten a better job.
If she had driven straight home, she wouldn't have had an accident.
We form the conditional 3 sentence with a modal verb such as would, could, or should + have + a past participle in the main clause.
\begin{tabular}{lll}
MODAL & HAVE & PAST PARTICIPLE \\ should & have & gone \\ would & have & written \\ could & have & avoided
\end{tabular}

For a complete list of past participles, see pages 164-165.
The contractions of these verb forms are would've, could've, and should've.

If we had left home earlier，we would＇ve arrived on time．
The contractions of the negative forms are wouldn＇t have，couldn＇t have，and shouldn＇t have．
If you had paid attention to the traffic，you wouldn＇t have had an accident．

\section*{avoid tн⿱亠䒑日心 Erfor}

Do not use would of，could of，or should of in place of would＇ve，could＇ve，and should＇ve．

Do not use wouldn＇t of，couldn＇t of or shouldn＇t of in place of wouldn＇t have，couldn＇t have，and shouldn＇t have． \begin{tabular}{ll} \(\boldsymbol{X}\) If I had studied harder，I & \(\boldsymbol{\sim}\) If I had studied harder，I \\ wouldn＇t of received such & wouldn＇t have received \\ a low grade． & such a low grade．
\end{tabular}

Use the past perfect tense in the if clause．The past perfect tense is formed with the past tense of have（had）and a past participle．
```

PAST TENSE OF HAD

```
had had had

PAST PARTICIPLE left finished driven

\section*{avoid the Error}

In the past perfect tense，do not use the simple past－tense form of the verb in place of the past participle．
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) If I had went to the supermarket，I would have bought some cheese．

\section*{\(\checkmark\) If I had gone to the \\ supermarket，I would have \\ bought some cheese．}

The past perfect form of have is had had．Though this construction sounds unusual，it is perfectly correct．

If we had had a first aid kit，we could have bandaged his wound．

Nevertheless, you may want to revise your sentence to avoid the repetition.
If we had brought a first aid kit, we could have bandaged his wound.

\section*{avoid the Error}

In independent clauses, do not use the past perfect tense in place of the simple past tense.
\(\boldsymbol{X}\) He had gone to the market at 5:00.

He went to the market at 5:00.

A My friends and I went out together on Saturday. First we went to see a movie at the Downtown Cinema at around 5 o'clock (or 5:00). After seeing the movie, we went to Patricca's Pizza to have pizza. Then Mike invited my friends and me to go to his house to play pool and watch TV. We stayed until 11 PM. I didn't want to stay late because I wanted to go to church on Sunday.
\(\mathbf{B}\) My roommate and I usually go to the supermarket on Saturday afternoons. The supermarket is busier on Saturday mornings, which is why we go in the afternoon. As a matter of fact, we just got back from the supermarket a few hours ago. We bought milk, some meat, two boxes of cereal, and a lot of fruit and vegetables. We also bought some yogurt and a big bottle of laundry detergent. Next, we are going to go the laundromat to wash our clothes.
© I had a bad day yesterday. First, I woke up late because the alarm didn't go off. So I put on my clothes and ran out the door. I hurried to the bus stop, but just as I came around the corner the bus was pulling (or pulled) away. I had to wait twenty minutes for the next one. I tried to call my boss, but my cell phone wasn't working. Then it started to rain. I hid under a tree until the bus came. When I finally got to work, the boss yelled at me. He said, "If you are late again, you will be fired!" So at lunch, I bought a new alarm clock.

Robert's favorite sport is rock climbing. He practices at a gym near his house. The gym has a high wall with some rocks in it. He wears special equipment to climb up the wall. Last weekend, he invited me to join him at the gym. I took one look at the rock wall and said that I never would climb up. Then Robert began climbing. But while he was climbing, he slipped. Luckily, the harness caught him, so he wasn't hurt. After that, I was really glad I didn't climb the wall.

E My uncle Don is an amazing man. He is over seventy years old, but he still gets up at 5:30 every day and walks for five miles. Even if it is raining, he still walks. If the weather is very bad, he goes to an indoor swimming pool near his house. Then he swims for an hour. Then he goes to work. On weekends, he has a stand at the flea market. He sells and repairs old bicycles. On Saturday nights he is never too tired to go dancing with his girlfriend. When I am old, I hope I am like my uncle.
